

Ford gains platform wins; Reagan rejected

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford won major tests of strength Friday as the Republican Platform Committee adopted his position on the Panama Canal and rejected Ronald Reagan's attempts to criticize his African policy and his conduct of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Nonetheless, Reagan spokesmen said the Republican challenger was satisfied with the document.

Persuaded by Ford partisans coordinating their strategy by walkie talkie, the committee rejected 55-43 an attempt by Reagan supporters to make the platform oppose any negotiations with Panama "which would ... relinquish United States sovereignty and control over the Panama Canal Zone."

The committee, meeting late into the evening, decided against a previously approved proposal to end federal aid to schools and compensate the states by letting them take over the federal tax on tobacco.

It wrote in instead a proposal for a study of the general idea of finding other revenues for the states and withdrawing federal participation. The tobacco tax was not mentioned.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, urging reconsideration of the original plank, told the delegates the party could not stand slogans like "buy the weed so kids can read" or "smoke your way through high school."

"I am reasonably sure neither presidential candidate would dare to run on a platform cutting off $1.9 billion for schools with every teacher in his state going after him with a branding iron," Scott said.

The committee also tabled a motion deploring scandalous behavior by public officials and naming names.

The plank would have said "We must cite the activities of Rep. Wayne Hays, Rep. Allen Howe, Rep. Wilbur Mills and — in our own party — the actions of those individuals associated with the so-called Watergate scandals. Such actions by persons in positions of public trust are unpardonable."

Some delegates argued successfully that the platform included this general subject and there was no need to mention names.

The Panama Canal vote was considered the clearest test of strength between Ford and Reagan camps within the committee.

CONVENTIONAL BREAK

20 others stricken with unidentified illness

Mystery disease hits nursing home; 4 die

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A quarantine was imposed Friday on a nursing home where four elderly patients died and 20 other persons were stricken by an undiagnosed illness, health officials said.

Palm Beach County health officials sought aid from state and federal experts and ordered a battery of tests in an attempt to identify the illness which hit the Boulevard Manor nursing home earlier this week.

"We first have to rule out heat exhaustion," said Dr. David J. Sencer of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. "I understand it's been hot there, and there may have been some problem with the air conditioning."

Sencer said he did not think there was any connection between the illness and the "legionaire's disease" which recently claimed 27 lives after an American Legion convention in Philadelphia.

"We have no reason to believe this is infectious," Sencer said. "But we've been asked to investigate and we are."

The first three deaths at the nursing home occurred during an eight-hour period late Thursday and early Friday, officials said. The victims were identified as Marion Wallace, 75, Claude Ross, 69 and Clarissa Richardson, 73.

The fourth victim, who died late Friday, was not immediately identified.

The home was quarantined Friday morning and the afflicted patients were isolated, officials said. Other activities were curtailed.

The nursing home — in this condominium-dotted town of 18,000 about 50 miles north of Miami on South Florida's Gold Coast — usually has about 100 residents, most of them elderly.

Two of those reported ill were nurses aides. They were sent home.

Palm Beach County health officials said they didn't know whether the disease was "viral, chemical or bacterial." Dr. James Howell, head of the county's preventive medicine department, said the symptoms included temperatures of up to 105 degrees, headaches and sore throats.

Nursing home administrator Earl Kimble said the symptoms first appeared in some of the patients early Wednesday. About 10 new cases were reported Friday morning.

"There are no indications at all as to what it might be," said Dr. Peter Lordi of Boca Raton, a private physician who said he had several patients at the home. "But I wouldn't be a bit surprised if it's viral. When you listen to the chest and don't hear anything wrong, when all you find is an elevated temperature, you have to think that. Viral pneumonia kills so many old people."

Throat cultures, blood tests, X rays and other tests were being used to try to identify the cause of the illness, doctors said. Results on the throat cultures were not expected from the state Health Department laboratory before next week, official said.

Earlier this year, an outbreak of flu swept through a nursing home in St. Petersburg, killing 28 patients within a few weeks.

Nationwide crackdown by security police

50 black leaders jailed in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Security police have arrested at least 50 black leaders in a nationwide crackdown on black nationalist groups suspected of fomenting South Africa's bloody racial upheavals, sources said Friday.

Only a few new outbreaks of violence were reported following two days of riots in black townships outside Cape Town in which at least 29 blacks were killed and some 100 injured.

South Africa's commissioner of police, Gen. Gert Prinsloo, confirmed in Pretoria that a number of blacks were being held under the recently enacted Internal Security Act but declined to give details.

The act provides for detention without trial of those arrested. Police in Port Elizabeth, 550 miles south of here, confirmed one arrest, that of Barney Pitsoana, general secretary of the Black South African Students Association.

Black sources said most of those arrested were from around Johannesburg, and others were from Cape Town, King William's Town, Grahamstown, Durban and Shepstone.

Along with the arrests, police were on alert throughout the country.

Police Brig. Jan Visser flew to Cape Town with 130 reinforcements and said, "I have just been set down to put a stop to the rioting here and that is just what I am going to do."

At the same time, Minister of Police James T. Kruger said South Africa's whites, with 17 per cent of the 25 million population, must not lash back at the black disturbances. He said the government would move quickly to give blacks a better deal under the apartheid policy of segregation and separate development of the races.

FBI's Dunphy pleads guilty; resigns post

WASHINGTON (AP) — An FBI official pleaded guilty Friday to a criminal charge of converting FBI property to his own use, the first charge brought in a wide-ranging probe of alleged financial improprieties in the bureau.

In a separate development, the Justice Department said it was granting several FBI agents immunity from prosecution in exchange for their testimony against other agents and officials involved in allegedly illegal break-ins.

John P. Dunphy, chief of the bureau's exhibits section, entered a guilty plea in U.S. District Court in Washington to a charge of converting to his personal use lumber and other materials owned by the FBI. The Justice Department said the value of the converted property was $100 or less.

It was believed to be the first criminal charge in the bureau's history against an FBI employee in connection with his work.

Dunphy resigned from his $37,800-a-year job at the close of business Thursday, said department spokesman Robert Havel. Dunphy entered the plea as part of an agreement with department prosecutors, Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said.

Havel refused to disclose the other terms of the plea bargain. However, such agreements usually require the defendant to cooperate with investigators by providing additional information about others involved in wrongdoing.

Cleaver released

OAKLAND (AP) — Black activist Eldridge Cleaver, who jumped a previous bail in 1968 and spent seven years in exile abroad, was released from jail on $100,000 bail Friday night.

"I come out of this jail in a spirit of good will, looking forward to getting together with my family and working with my attorneys," said Cleaver as he left the Alameda County courthouse.

Cleaver, 40, accused of assault and attempted murder in connection with a 1968 shootout between Oakland police and Black Panthers, indicated his defense would be based on the political climate of the late 1960s.

"When I left the country in 1968, the FBI and the CIA, in concert with local police agencies, conspired to destroy the Black Panther party," said Cleaver.

He contended police precipitated the shootout and that he never held gun in his hand.

New trial for Manson girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state Court of Appeals overturned the murder conviction of the youngest member of the Charles Manson family on Friday and ordered a new trial. But the court denied a new trial for Manson and two other members of his cult who were convicted in the 1969 slayings of actress Sharon Tate and five other persons.

In a 2-1 ruling, the appeals panel said Leslie Van Houten, now 26, is entitled to a new hearing because the 11th-hour disappearance of her attorney "severely interrupted the continuity of representation necessary to a fair trial."

Car salesman freed in valley slaying case

Only hours before he was scheduled to be arraigned Friday on murder charges, a 26-year-old Upland car salesman was released by San Bernardino County Sheriff's homicide detectives investigating the May slaying of a Cucamonga woman.

Gerrard Princeton Hite of La Puente, booked Thursday for investigation of murder in the slaying of Norma May Stewart, 8213 Lucite St., was released from custody after the deputy district attorney's office in Ontario refused to file a formal complaint against him because of "insufficient evidence."

Hite is still scheduled to stand trial on charges of assault and attempted burglary in a July incident in Chino.

Hite was arrested last week and charged with breaking into the home of Linda Larson, 26, on July 21.

Police said the suspect allegedly attacked the woman as she entered her home carrying her five-month-old son.

Sgt. Bob Edmonds of the sheriff department's homicide bureau said he only learned late Friday morning that the district attorney would not file the necessary formal complaint against Hite in the Cucamonga killing.

Salary hike vote by supervisors sparks move to recall Mikesell

A San Bernardino County citizen group started its official organized outcry against 37 per cent supervisor pay raises Friday by filing a notice of intent to recall Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell of Ontario.

The action came four days after Mikesell and three other San Bernardino County supervisors voted to increase their salaries from $21,613 to $30,178 a year. The vote was 4-1, with Sup. Robert Townsend, Fourth District, Chino, voting no.

Mikesell, an 18-year veteran of the board, arrived home Thursday from Washington, D.C. He said Friday he would not be able to read the notice until Monday.

"Before I comment, I would like to take time to look at the notice, to see if it is factual, and to see what the charges are," he said.

"If it is on account of the raise," Mikesell continued, "the state law is very specific in stating that supervisors' salary increases may not take effect for 60 days. That is to permit citizens to petition against the raise, if they disagree, and have it stayed."

Mikesell said that "if the salary matter is so important to these people, and it seems to be, this would be the proper way to go."

To stay the raise, citizens would have to secure signatures of 10 per cent of those in the county who voted in the last election, Mikesell said.

Based on voter turnout in his district last election, some 5,763 voter signatures would be required to bring about the recall election against Mikesell.

The notice of intent to recall

Mikesell was filed by James F. Keeshen, 55, 340 E. Hawthorne St., Ontario.

It listed two other grounds for Mikesell's removal from the board other than his vote on the pay increase. They were that he frequently is absent from board meetings and that he "has failed to demonstrate responsible leadership at his elected post and been insensitive to the financial plight of his constituents."

Mikesell's second district includes Ontario north of Holt Avenue, Upland, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda and part of Fontana.

The San Bernardino County registrar of voters said his office has received many inquiries the last few days about the procedure for recalling county supervisors.

Levi orders probe of Roselli killing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi late Friday ordered the FBI to investigate whether mobster John Roselli was murdered as a result of his Senate committee testimony on CIA assassination plots against Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Levi responded to requests from Senate intelligence committee members that the Justice Department take charge of the investigation.

Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said Levi told the FBI "to investigate whether the Roselli homicide was the result of his testimony before the committee or to prevent future testimony before a committee of Congress."

Roselli's body was found stuffed in a drum floating in Biscayne Bay off the Florida coast over the weekend.

Roselli had testified about his role in a CIA scheme to use organized crime figures to kill Castro. The scheme was never carried out.

Havel said Levi authorized the FBI to enter the case under a federal statute which makes it a crime to obstruct proceedings before government agencies and congressional committees.

The statute sets a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said Wednesday that department officials had advised him there was no federal jurisdiction in the case.

Body of man executed 'gangland' style found on road near airport

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Ontario police this morning are attempting to identify a man found shot to death on a dirt road east of Ontario International Airport, apparently the victim of an execution style slaying.

The body was spotted about 9 a.m. Friday by a pilot from Golden West Airlines landing at OIA. The pilot radioed the airport tower who in turn notified police.

Police at the scene, about a mile south of the San Bernardino Freeway off of Milliken Avenue found the body lying face-up naked. The body of the male Latin in his 20's, bore a number of markings on the thighs and chest that police investigators said are linked to the murder.

Police identification officers and the San Bernardino County pathologist office were performing an autopsy on the body transported to Draper Mortuary to determine the exact cause of death.

However, to police at the scene, it appeared the man had been shot once in the head. The bullet entered or exited the top of the skull and possibly lodged in the man's back. The only other sign of violence to the body was a bruise on the nose that could have occurred when the man fell, mortally wounded.

Police said that the initials "MP" tattooed below a cross on the man's left hand between the thumb and index finger and a good set of fingerprints taken from the body would assist in making an identification.

Chino and Corona police were called to the scene to assist in the identification. Police theorize that the slaying may be linked to a number of gangland incidents over the past several months occurring in the San Bernardino and Riverside county areas.

Police probe death of man

Ontario homicide detectives today launched an investigation into the death of Frank Lawrence McGinty, 30, Ontario, whose body was found Thursday in a parked pickup truck.

They said "certain evidence" had turned up in the case to indicate the victim may not have died of self-injected overdose of heroin, as was first suspected.

The body was found at 1:40 p.m. Thursday in the vehicle parked in the 1000 block of Washington Street in Ontario.

The Ontario Police Department notified the San Bernardino County Coroner's Office and an investigation was called.

The coroner requested that an autopsy be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Future of mini-bus on mall discussed

The cessation of mini-bus service on the Pomona Mall was discussed Friday at a meeting of the downtown Vehicle Parking District commission, but no plan for reviving the service was formulated.

Mini-bus service, a tradition of the Mall for many years, ended on Aug. 6, after the final funds provided by the city ran out.

Pomona City Council decided last year to end funding of the service, but was persuaded by downtown businessmen to keep the mini-bus going pending development of a new funding method by the Central Business District and Vehicle Parking Districts.

A new funding formula has never been achieved, however, said City Administrator Jerrold Gonc.

No funds for the operation were included in the city's new budget, which went into effect July 1.

Cost of the operation was about $500 per month beyond the fare receipts.

4 bishops held in Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Four Roman Catholic bishops from the United States and about a score of Latin American clergymen were held in custody by the Ecuadorian government Friday for interrogation about a church conference broken up by army troops in Riobamba, 125 miles south of here.

The Americans were identified as the Most Rev. Robert F. Sanchez, archbishop of Santa Fe, N. M.; the Most Rev. Patrick F. Flores, auxiliary to the archbishop of San Antonio, Tex.; the Most Rev. Gilbert E. Chavez, auxiliary bishop of San Diego, Calif.; and the Most Rev. Juan A. Arzube, auxiliary to the archbishop of Los Angeles.

Agree on busing issue, disagree on health care

Lloyd, Brutocao air views at Via Verde luncheon

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Two candidates seeking election in the 35th Congressional District stood together on issues such as mandatory busing and the so-called "full employment" bill but separated on other national measures such as public health care programs and revenue sharing when they spoke at a luncheon Friday at the Via Verde Country Club.

Rep. Jim Lloyd, the Democratic incumbent, and Louis Brutocao, the Republican challenger, met face-to-face for the first time in their political campaigns at a program sponsored by the Covina Valley Board of Realtors and the Covina Chamber of Commerce.

The sharpest exchange between the two candidates involved the sale of Lloyd's public relations firm in Covina.

Brutocao bluntly asked Lloyd to justify his selling the firm to an employee and then putting that employee on his payroll at $1,000 a month.

In rebuttal, Lloyd declared he had been "above board" in his dealing and the reason he sold the firm was he had been told by the House of Representatives ethics committee to divest himself of the business.

Regarding his reason for hiring the former employee, Lloyd said,

"I have known him since he was going to high school. He is a good, decent, hard working person who is a member of the Covina Chamber of Commerce."

In a question and answer period, the candidates were asked for their stands on busing.

Lloyd declared he stood against busing because of the problems manifest in Louisville and Boston. "I was one of 50 sponsors of a bill that stated that busing is not a function of education but of a problem that exists in the United States and which we must address directly — that of racial integration."

"Busing does not handle that. Racial integration comes from social acceptance and that is what we have to address ourselves too."

Brutocao said mandatory busing is another example of over-regulation of the federal government in the citizens' lives. He declared that local cities should take care of local problems.

He reported that mandatory busing had created a "tremendous experience" for those children involved that would last for the rest of their lives.

When asked for opinions on a national health care program, Lloyd said he was for a strong health program for persons in their early years and in their senior citizen years and which addressed itself to catastrophic illnesses.

But he said this must be done with an oversight involving medical persons such as doctors and nurses.

Brutocao disagreed, stating this was another "destruction of our freedom." The U.S. has proven the private system of medicine is superior, he added. "Other nations have gone to socialized medicine and now taxes are destroying them."

When asked if he would support the Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill, Brutocao described this as bad legislation with a $40 billion price tag.

There are jobs in the nation that pay only $2 or $2.50 an hour. "People do not want them since they found easier ways of live," he said.

Lloyd said he had not supported the bill and did not believe the measure would make it out of committee. Noting the nation must address itself to employment, Lloyd said the bill tends to be too far ahead of its time. "We can't generate employment 100 per cent for anyone," he said.

Those attending the luncheon were asked to cast their ballot for the candidate of their choice. With 156 "straw votes" cast, 67 were for Lloyd, 52 for Brutocao, two for "none of the above," and 35 were "undecided."

No trouble filling them, says survey

More apartments needed in Chino

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino has a strong need for construction of new apartment units, and probably would have no trouble filling them.

The conclusions can be drawn from a survey and analysis of Chino apartments released this week by the city's Department of Community Development.

Earl Nelson, assistant planner, said the survey was compiled primarily for the use of developers considering projects in the city.

He noted that while the survey does not say it, anyone could see that "more apartments could be built in Chino."

The report reveals a low, record 3.9 per cent vacancy rate among present apartment units in the city. Out of 778 total units (in complexes with four or more units) only 30 are now vacant.

Dwelling units most in demand are the two-bedroom type, which has the lowest vacancy rate of 2.3 per cent. Bachelor units are the least popular with a vacancy of 12.1 per cent.

About 65 per cent, or 20 complexes, presently have a zero vacancy rate.

Average rent of all unfurnished units combined is $167. For apartments in complexes with 20 or more units, the level is $177.

Rents have gone up about 24 per cent in the past four years. They range from $80 for unfurnished one bedroom units to $300 for furnished three-bedroom units.

Sixty-seven per cent of the units range from $160 to $210. Average price of bachelor units is $154, one-bedroom, $150, two-bedroom, $176 and three bedroom, $201.

The last apartment survey in Chino was conducted in February, 1974. No new apartments have been built since the last survey but approval has been granted for two complexes, one with 150 units, and another with 72.

Out of 31 apartment complexes now in the city, 17 contain 5 to 9 units, seven have 10 to 19, three have 20 to 39 units, and four contain 40 to 170 units.

Twenty-one have two stories, 25 have laundry facilities, 15 air conditioning, 12 have some units with 1½ bathrooms, 12 have outdoor patios, 10 have swimming pools and four, recreation rooms. Nineteen allow children, and 12 allow adults only. About 2.6 per cent of the

One killed in holdup attempt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An armored car driver was shot and killed and another was critically wounded Friday when their vehicle was held up by four men in Walnut Park, sheriff's deputies said.

Officers cordoned off a wide area and searched on foot and by helicopter for the four men, who escaped on foot after wrecking their car in a getaway attempt.

Neither the dead guard nor the wounded guard was identified pending notification of relatives. The second guard, wounded in the chest, was reported in critical condition at St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood.

Deputies said it was not immediately determined if the four men escaped with any money, although some money was taken from the armored car and placed in their car.

The Loomis Armored Car vehicle was making a pickup at the A&N Liquor Store when four men approached the vehicle. Deputies said the first guard was shot and killed without warning when he got out of the truck.

Autopsy in baby deaths

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An autopsy would have to be performed in all cases where so-called "sudden death infant syndrome" was suspected under a bill clearing the Senate Friday.

A 29-0 vote sent the bill back to the Assembly for a vote on Senate amendments.

Existing law allows a coroner to make such an autopsy but does not require it. Assemblyman Bill Thomas, R-Bakersfield, authored the bill. It is AB 3648.

Typical Claremonter:

Has higher income, better education

The typical Claremonter is residentially more stable, has a greater earning capacity, and is far better educated than average when compared on a regional and national basis, a study of a special 1975 census has revealed.

The typical Claremonter owns his own home, has lived in the city four to five years, and has a median education level of four years of college, the study showed.

The median household income is about $18,000 a year, and the median age is 30, the statistics revealed.

Such statistics are found in the first volume of "Planning Area Characteristics" of the 1975 special census.

A second volume, containing more detailed information, is being readied for the printer.

The census included Claremont's planning area, composed of the city and those unincorporated areas within the city's sphere of influence.

The census confirmed that Claremont enjoyed a population boom between 1950 and 1965 with an annual growth of 11.2 per cent a year.

Ten years after 1940, the city doubled its population from 3,057 to 6,327, and then doubled it again to 12,633 in 1960.

A special census in 1965 revealed a 70 percent growth to 21,474.

The growth slowed down to a 12 per cent rate by 1970 and five per cent to 25,199 in 1975.

Claremont's growth in land area also demonstrated a similar decline. Whereas almost 3.5 square miles were annexed during 1960-65 to boost the city's size to 7.14 square miles, only half a square mile was added between 1965-75.

Since the special census was conducted last year, the city's area increased to 8.3 square miles with two annexations in northeast Claremont in late 1975 and early 1976.

There are 16.7 square miles within the city's planning area; therefore the city limits could be doubled through future annexations.

Proposed Annexation 52-A plans to include 2.3 square miles from the county line to the present city limits, and from Mt. Baldy Road on the north southward to bring in the Claremont Tennis Club.

The city expects to hold an annexation election in November.

It is estimated that the population of Claremont in 1980 will be 29,000 to 30,000, and from 37,000 to 38,000 by 1990.

Foothill Fire Dis. may ask voters for tax hike

The Foothill Fire District Board of Directors may soon go before the taxpayers of the tri-community area of Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda to ask for a tax increase of up to 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The board has noted that costs for fire protection in the Tri-community area have been increasing faster than revenues from the added population and escalating assessed valuation.

The board, citing the costs, said there was a great need for a tax increase to maintain its already-pressed fire protection general operations and a growing desire among tri-community residents to establish a paramedic service.

Currently, residents of the tri-community area are paying 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation for fire protection and services. While the board has not determined the exact amount of a tax increase, taxpayers could be asked to approve a tax of approximately $1, a 30-cent increase.

The board said it hopes to present the exact tax increase needed and bring it before the voters within the next year so the increase can be in effect by July 1, 1977.

Foothill Fire District Chief Eugene Billings pointed out that just prior to the fire district being formed in 1974 it was projected the district could operate on a "bare bones" budget of not less than 86 cents per $100 evaluation.

However, the district was not allowed to set its initial tax rate at more than 70 cents by the Local Agency Formation Commission and has been operating at that rate ever since.

The $1.2 million budget recently approved by the district for 1976-77 did not include any tax increase.

Acting fire district Chairman Rick Lebel said the district was not using the paramedic issue as a means of creating a more favorable attitude among the voters but admitted that without the paramedics the tax increase would be reduced from 10 to 20 cents.

Lebel said the Foothill Fire Protection District, according to national standards, is operating well below the normal level. National standards dictate that a five-man full-time crew should staff a fire station. The district currently has a three-man staff at the Alta Loma and Cucamonga stations and a two-man crew at its temporary Etiwanda station. "By national standards we are operating at only a 25 per cent efficiency," Lebel said.

The board agreed that in the very near future the residents of the tri-community area will have to decide just what level of fire protection service they want, considering the tremendous growth experience in the area in the past three years.

Whatever the case, the district must take its case to the public quickly, as already it is too late to place the measure on the November ballot, leaving only the March or May election dates in 1977.

The board was told it has one other alternative for quick action, and that would be an election by mail.

However, mail election costs, such as printing up ballots both in English and Spanish, and mailings, would have to be borne entirely on the shoulder of the district. In general elections the board would only pay part of the costs.

Collectors will spotlight trains

Western World Collectors Association will present a program on toy trains Sunday during the meeting of the association's Chapter 1, at 85 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

Robert McCready of Buena Park will display and describe some of his collection of toy trains.

The 2 p.m. meeting will be held in the upstairs meeting room of the Upland Lumber Co. and is open to all interested persons.

2 make grade as graphoanalysts

Two Pomona women received certificates as certified graphoanalysts in ceremonies at the 1976 International Congress and Institute of Graphoanalysis in Chicago.

Elaine E. Savickas, 2489 Notre Dame Ave., and Catherine Downey, 1118 Loma Vista Ave., attended resident classes in Chicago for six days in July to supplement the extension studies they had completed previously.

READY TO MARCH

Putting up a sign on an Ontario residence for an evangelistic outreach program are members of "Soldiers for Christ." They plan to work with heroin addicts. They are, kneeling, Albert Ruiz

Former heroin addict turns home into halfway house

For most of his life, Frank Castrejon relied on marijuana, liquor and heroin to get "high."

But since that day he knelt in a San Bernardino County jail worship service, he has been "high" with Jesus Christ.

And Castrejon gives credit to the power of Christ for his being able to rid himself of narcotics and return to a near normal life with his wife and six children.

Knowing the torture that other addicts must endure, Castrejon has joined other "born again" Christians in opening a home to assist them in learning about Christ and going through the "withdrawals" of drugs.

Banded together under the banner of "Soldiers for Christ," the group is remodeling a home in south Ontario left to Castrejon and his brother by the death of their father.

The "soldiers" plan to offer 24-hour-a-day religious counseling and prayers to any who seek their help. They plan to have beds in one room for those addicts suffering from the withdrawal symptoms.

But for those needing long term help, they will be referred to other established rehabilitation centers such as the Jericho House in Chino, Victory Outreach in San Bernardino and the Fellowship Vine in Pasadena.

Through this project, Castrejon hopes that others will receive the same love and assurance he received through his acceptance of Jesus.

Castrejon was only 14 when he was introduced to marijuana. And three years later, he began injecting heroin into his arms.

"I never saw a needle before I started using. I had heard of rumors in the area. I was smoking marijuana and drinking. I took one further step."

But from that "high" feeling of heroin, his life dropped to such a low point that at one time he and his son were "shooting" together.

Castrejon said he didn't have a father-son relationship at that time.

"To me, he was just another user." Quietly recalling his years with the needle, Castrejon said his life was like a swinging door as he passed in and out of juvenile hall and later county jails.

His 36 arrests included such offenses as burglaries, auto thefts, intoxication and being under the influence of heroin.

And when he was out of jail, he became a burden on his wife and children as he sought to support his narcotic habit.

Globetrotting man from CARE*When tragedy strikes, Jerome Lewis is there to help

By Ira Berkow
In the night of November 13, 1970, a sudden cyclone and tidal wave, with a luminous blue-black wall of water 30 feet high, roared in from the Bay of Bengal. It crashed through the poor, densely populated delta area of East Pakistan, razing and flooding it and causing one of the worst disasters of modern times. An estimated half million to one million people were killed. For days afterward, corpses and debris floated everywhere as far as the eye could see.

Jerome S. Lewis was the CARE mission chief to Pakistan then. When the disaster struck he happened to be in the United States on home leave. He was summoned back immediately, and headed CARE's emergency and rehabilitation programs, supplying meals and clothing and tools for the survivors to build houses again.

At one point, Lewis found himself on the island of Bholi, which didn't have a house standing after the catastrophe. There was a desk, and that night the Pakistanis there wished Lewis to sleep on the desk. It was the closest thing to a bed on the island, and Lewis was considered a privileged guest.

Over the last decade or so, when there was a natural disaster, the odds were good that there would also be Jerome S. (Jerry) Lewis.

Besides helping in the aftermath of the cyclone and tidal wave in East Pakistan in 1970, Lewis was a field leader in Indonesia in 1968 when the volcano in Mount Merapi exploded. He was a country leader in Honduras in 1974 when hurricane Fifi caused 2,000 deaths and 8,000 families to be homeless. Lewis was working for CARE in Guatemala last February when the land suddenly groaned from an earthquake. It lasted just 37 seconds but an entire nation was literally torn asunder. Buildings toppled. Land-slides rumbled. Trees crashed. Over 10,000 people were killed.

Jerry Lewis's background did not completely prepare him for all this. Lewis, now 43, was born in Brooklyn when a disaster was burning your tongue from the chicken soup.

He is 6-2, with a sturdy build, aviator glasses, a ready laugh and a penchant for adventure. He was back in New York recently on another home leave, with his wife, Eva, a Dutch woman he met in Indonesia, and their three small children. Michelle born in Singapore, Lisa born in Pakistan, and Steven born in Honduras.

"I had a conventional beginning," said Lewis, sitting in the CARE world headquarters in Manhattan. "I got a bachelor's degree in business administration from City College of New York. But before starting a business career, I went into the Navy.

"I was an officer. It was in the late '50s and President Eisenhower had is People-to-People program in effect. The Navy was ordered to assist. I remember going to the Philippines and bringing in food to pygmies who had been suffering from malnutrition. Seeing these poor people, and realizing how much help they needed, moved me.

"But I also saw that we — the Navy — came in, and quickly left. It was a one-shot deal. And these people, most of whom were suffering from diarrhea got rid of the food about as fast as we brought it. More help, and different kinds of help, were needed.

"I came back to the states. And I got a Bachelor of Foreign Trade in Phoenix, and I went to work with an export company in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

"But travel, and those poor people, were still on my mind. I signed up with CARE because I respected their program. It's designed to help people help themselves. It's not really a handout thing, except in times of catastrophe, of course. But even then the people do it themselves. For instance, in Guatemala after the quake the people were removing the rubble with sticks. We brought in hoes and shovels and wheelbarrows, and the people began clearing the place like crazy.

"We help the government programs in such things as building schools, and hospitals, and helping them develop their crop rotations.

"I learn so much from these poor people. They have such resilience. And I guess my admiration for them is one reason I continue the work I do. Their lives are so hard that when a tremendous disaster strikes they just continue on, re-building, re-shaping — starting from scratch and without a visible tear. If it happened to me, I think I'd sit down on a rock and cry for three days.

MARIACHIS — "Los Hermanos Zavala," a mariachi group, will perform at the annual fiesta ta sponsored by Our Lady of Guadalupe Church today and Sunday at the Chino Fairgrounds.

Mariachis, folk dancing highlight Guadalupe fiesta

Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Chino will stage its annual fiesta today and Sunday from noon to 8 p.m. at the Chino Junior Fairgrounds.

The fiesta previously was held on the church grounds but because of parking problems and sometimes disruptive activities in that area, the fiesta was moved to the fairgrounds.

Art Escobar, fiesta chairman, said the event will offer an array of Mexican food, carnitas, games, entertainment and prizes. Mariachi music will be provided by "Los Hermanos Zavala" and "Los Alacranes." Other music will be offered by the "Backbone Band."

Entertainment also will include group dancing featuring Esthere Padilla Y La Familia Folklorica, Judy Torres Y Balet Folklorico, plus others.

A lamb and a 1,000-pound steer donated by Ralph and Mabel Partida will be prizes available during the fiesta.

Mother Teresa cares for the poorest of the poor

PHILADELPHIA (AP)

— To Mother Teresa, the poor are the great ones, the courageous, noble and kind. "Such dignity, such goodness," she says. In them she sees the Divine image. They suffer, yes, but that, too, she says, is like God.

"He made himself the hungry one, the homeless, naked, unwanted one," she says. "We meet him in disguise in the faces of the poor."

Mother Teresa, a small, fragile, slightly stooped nun of 67, whose work among the "poorest of the poor" in Calcutta, India, has grown into the worldwide Missionaries of Charity, seems to radiate that same selflessness which she finds in those who have nothing.

A grieving compassion lines her face, and when she smiles, it seems as if the light wells up from some shadowy, forgotten place of tears.

She was repeatedly referred to as a "saint" at last week's International Eucharistic Congress here and crowds of people trailed her about, seeking to press her hand or simply to touch her white sari, the habit of her order.

Through her, that customary Eastern impulse to share or absorb the "karma" of some holy person by getting near them seemed to have been transported into the West.

"The poor do not want your pity," she says. "They want your love. But do we see them? Do we know them? Are we with them? When we come before God, he will judge us on what we have been to the poor, on what we have done to the poor."

At the Congress, a global gathering of Roman Catholics centered on faith in Christ's real presence in the bread and wine of the eucharist, or holy communion, Mother Teresa gave several talks and interviews.

"People have told us that we spoil the poor with our work," she said. "It is good to have at least one congregation that spoils the poor because everybody is always spoiling the rich."

She told graphic stories of work with the desperately poor, of a family of eight which, on being given some rice, first shared it with hungry neighbors before eating; of a starving woman who died saying "thank you" simply for being picked up from the street and shown some concern.

Valley churches

San Dimas Methodist

The Rev. Jerry Welch of the Pastoral Counseling Center of Claremont and the Pomona Valley Council of Churches will be guest speaker at the United Methodist Church of San Dimas Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Mr. Welch is the first of guest speakers appearing at the church during the vacation of the Rev. Ed Burn, pastor.

Mr. Welch holds degrees from Baylor University, the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and the School of Theology at Claremont. He has been a pastor in Virginia and chaplain of the Kentucky Reception Center for Children. He will become a pastoral counselor at the Methodist Research Institute of Houston, Tex. in the fall.

Nazarene Church

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wise, missionaries to the Republic of South Africa who are now on furlough, will be the speakers at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at the First Church of the Nazarene in Upland.

Now on their fifth furlough since going to Africa as missionaries in 1946 under auspices of the Church of the Nazarene, the couple has served in many areas, including educational, medical and agricultural.

Both attended Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho. Mr. Wise graduated from Pasadena College and his wife is a graduate of the Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing in Idaho.

Valley Drive-in Church

The films "Through Gates of Splendor" and "Though I Walk Through the Valley" will be shown at the Valley Community Drive-in Church of San Dimas at 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

"Through Gates of Splendor" tells the story of five missionaries who died in South America. "Though I Walk Through the Valley" deals with the last six months of a man's life.

The public is invited. Admission is free, but an offering will be received during the program.

The Rev. Vincent Bennett will speak on "Gideon — A Mighty Man of Valor" at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday services.

United Church of Christ

The Rev. David M. Held will report to members of the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational, Sunday at 10 a.m. on his trip to Europe this summer.

Mr. Held attended a consultation at the World Council of Churches' Ecumenical Institute at Bossey, near Geneva.

First Baptist Church

The Rev. Dennis McFadden, youth minister, will lead the third session of the family-style vacation Bible school at First Baptist Church in Chino. Sunday from 6 to 8 p.m.

The 11 a.m. worship service will feature a message from the Rev. Robert Wilson, pastor, on "Our Position."

Chino Free Methodist

"Flip Side," a film said to be an authentic portrayal of youth in turmoil, will be shown at 8 p.m. Sunday at Chino Free Methodist Church.

The public is invited to view the free film.

The regular Sunday school hour will be at 9:15 a.m. under the direction of Chuck Copeland, superintendent. The morning worship hour at 10:30 will continue the study of the Book of Acts by the Rev. Ernest W. Morrison, pastor.

Bethany Baptist Church

"Barrett," a film on the career of police Sgt. Gary Barrett, will be screened at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Bethany Baptist Church of Montclair.

Following the film, the social committee will hold an ice cream social in Fellowship Hall. The public is invited to attend both events.

Presbyterian Church

The Rev. G. Merrill Lenox will be the guest speaker Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service of the South Hills Presbyterian Church in Pomona.

His sermon topic will be "Reflection on Nairobi," in which he will discuss social, political and religious conditions in West Africa and give a report on the Fifth Assembly of the World Council of Churches held in Nairobi.

Mr. Lenox is the broadcasting consultant to the Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

Christ Lutheran Church

An update on the status activities and goals of the church will be presented Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church in Chino.

The Rev. Aaron L. Plueger, pastor, will complete a presentation on his recent tour of Europe at the 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services.

Bible classes are scheduled for 9:15 a.m. The Bible forum, led by Pastor Plueger, will study the sixth chapter of Micah on "What the Lord Requires."

Goodwill Church of God

Sunday will be Youth Day at the Goodwill Church of God in Christ in Pomona.

Youth of the church will show missionary movies during the 11:20 a.m. service.

The Rev. Kenneth Morris of Covina will speak at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Chino United Methodist

The Rev. Barry Woodbridge of Claremont will be the guest preacher at Chino United Methodist Church at 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

Mr. Woodbridge is a graduate of Claremont School of Theology and is doing advance work in the graduate school.

Pomona Baptist

Theology school pres. to speak

The Rev. Holland B. London, president of the California Graduate School of Theology in Glendale, will be the guest speaker Sunday at the morning worship services of the First Baptist Church in Pomona.

Mr. London will speak at both the 8:15 and 11 a.m. services. He is an international evangelist, having visited more than 200 countries and conducted campaigns throughout the world.

At the church's 6 p.m. worship service, the sermon will be delivered by Miss Maureen Brians.

Gentry family to give concert

The Gentry Family Singers will be guests of the Church of the Gentle Shepherd (Pentecostal Holiness), Pomona, giving a concert of gospel music at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Colonial Chapel of the Pomona Valley Mortuary.

The young singers will present such songs as "Get All Excited," "You're Something Special," "The King Is Coming," "Put Your Hand in the Hand" and "I Wonder How It Felt."

Former stripper changes ways

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Former stripper Susanne Harris, 29, has switched from displaying her body to displaying her faith in Jesus Christ.

Now Mrs. Tom Register, and a member of First Baptist Church here, the former "Miss Nude Universe" of 1971-72 was converted to Christianity about a year ago, married and settled down here.

She began telling the story of the change in her life to various groups at the suggestion of the church's pastor, the Rev. Homer G. Lindsay Jr., after informing him of her past career.

Pastors urged to speak out

GLORIETA, N.M. (AP) — Southern Baptist pastors, many of whom have been against speaking out on social issues, were urged here to be "prophets to a broken and weary world" in the 1976 election campaign.

The Rev. A. Douglas Watterson Jr., of Dallas, told a denominational conference that pastors must "find their voices and speak out clearly on human rights, armament, world hunger, unconscionable costs of health care, root causes of crime and corruption."

If Christian leaders become vocal on moral implications of these issues, he said "those who are running for public office will hear and be responsive."

He said that many pastors have opted out of dealing with the "nasty, old world," as though preaching about how to be saved and get to heaven is their only task, but he added, "The time has come for more than just pious talk."

A Southern Baptist, Jimmy Carter, is the Democratic presidential nominee.

Israeli students get skimpy view

NEW YORK (AP) — Pupils in Israel's high schools get a "skimpy and unbalanced view" of the history and accomplishments of American Jews, a new study finds.

It says the gap is due primarily to inadequate material in history texts used in Israel.

The two-year study was financed by the American Jewish Committee's Jacob Blaustein Institute for the Advancement of Human Rights and conducted by Reuven Surkis, director of Israel's historical society.

Civil war disrupting churches in Angola

NEW YORK (AP) — An American churchman back from a fact-finding trip to Angola says its churches are faring well in areas firmly controlled by the new government, but are in distress in the most populous, productive region of central Angola where the civil war continues.

"I was not prepared for the level of military activity still going on there," says the Rev. Lawrence W. Henderson, adding that it has not generally been reported because of limitations on news reporters. "There's a lot of fighting and it has increased considerably in recent weeks."

He says that in that central region, agriculturally the most productive "breadbasket" of the country, forces of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — UNITA — led by Jonas Savimbi, still are in open struggle with those of the Movement for the Popular Liberation of Angola — MPLA — headed by Agostinho Neto, which claimed victory last February.

It has set up the new government at the capital at Luanda, and in that area, there is a general mood of church confidence and vitality, and of cooperation with the government, says the Rev. Mr. Henderson, an official of the United Church of Christ Board of World Ministries.

"Up to this point, the government has consistently followed through on its promises of religious freedom," he said in an interview. "The government is absolutely committed to a Socialist society, but I found no reason to believe its leaders intend to carry out any war against religion."

He said the overnment's political position of "scientific socialism" holds that religion is "just an appendix, a leftover from feudalism and capitalism" that needs to be replaced by a scientific outlook, but that so far, no attempts had been made to restrict religious teaching.

As part of a three-man team sent to gather information on the church situation in Angola for a report to a meeting of the World

Council of Churches central committee in August, he said that south of the Luanda region in central Angola, strife and uncertainties remain.

"There is conflict, open confrontation and fear," he said. "The churches, caught in the conflict between government troops and guerrillas, are forced to collaborate with the government in the cities. But in the rural areas where the government is not strong, the churches are seen as still resisting. Schools are not open and the people who fled to the bush still are there."

The Evangelical Church of Central Angola, related to the United Church of Christ in this country, is the predominant Protestant body in that region, while Methodists predominate in the Luanda region and Baptists in northern Angola. Roman Catholics are spread through the country.

Over-all, the six million Angolans are about 40 per cent Catholic, 15 per cent Protestant and 45 per cent traditional African religion.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson, 55, a missionary in Angola for 22 years, said the end of Portuguese rule there meant that the Catholic Church "lost its privileged position as the official church and is now thrown on its own the way Protestants are," but is adjusting to the new situation.

"It has meant a good deal more cooperation between Catholics and Protestants," he said, noting that the Catholic bishop in Uige in northern Angola called a meeting July 15 of all church leaders to cooperate in aiding returning refugees.

He said all churches and missions in that northern region were wiped out at the start of the war.

Heroin addicts

He would steal from his family such items as radios which he sold and used the money to buy heroin. Castrejon recalled his heroin dealer telling him that he was also supplying Castrejon's son with the drug.

"I wasn't upset," he said. "Later we shot together several times."

But even when stealing from his family, Castrejon had a desire to help his wife and children. When the cupboards would be bare of food, the father would steal luncheon meat and other groceries from small neighborhood markets so his family wouldn't go hungry.

It was while he was serving time at the San Bernardino County jail that Castrejon made a decision that changed his entire life.

An evangelistic team was conducting a Sunday worship service in the inmates' recreation room and at the conclusion asked if any inmates wanted to "accept Christ."

Deciding that Christ must have an answer for his life, Castrejon slowly made his way through the seated inmates to the front and knelt there to seek "forgiveness."

During the remainder of his jail sentence, he sought to strengthen his religious experience through daily Bible study.

Then upon his release, he returned to his Upland home to look for work and become a husband and father to his wife and children.

But Castrejon was overcome once more by a strong desire for heroin. While helping a friend, he was offered and finally accepted a "fix."

Then realizing he didn't want to return to the life of a "junkie," Castrejon sought help at the Jericho House in Chino.

Through counseling and prayers, he emerged from the "live in" program a stronger Christian. He returned to his Upland home and found employment in a Chino plant where he still works.

Castrejon has been joined in his Christian belief by his wife and several of their children.

His evangelistic work, however, soon expanded outside his home and into an area where he spent his childhood.

"When my father died, he left to my brother and me the home at 960 E. California St. where we lived when we moved to Ontario in 1947," he said.

Castrejon and other "soldiers" are now busily remodeling the home during evenings and weekends and expect to have it open within the next two or three months.

"We are paying for all the materials ourselves," he said.

Speedster gets royal welcome

MILPITAS (AP) — "I had no idea cops in California lived like this."

That comment came from a speedster from Chicago who had just been arrested by Neil Thomas, detective commander of the police force here.

Thomas was driving a Cadillac Coupe de Ville at the time.

Now Thomas has changed to a sportier Triumph TR-7. And Chief James Murray drives a Porsche Targa convertible — equipped with a two-way radio, siren, and flashing red light.

School reform plan advances

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A plan to give junior and senior high school students credit for work experience, or let them take a year's "furlough," has cleared its first Assembly committee.

The measure by Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa, was sent to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee Thursday on an 8-2 vote of the Education Committee.

Developed by the statewide Commission for the Reform of

"When we need something, we buy it."

Although the outreach program is still being prepared, the "Soldiers for Christ" are holding regular Sunday worship services there.

"We share testimonies and discuss mutual concerns. But most of all we give praise to Jesus Christ," he declared.

But Castrejon said the home is being prepared to provide a refuge for those who have "tried everything."

"Once they know there is a place that people are making it, I believe they will go there. The Lord has us there for a reason," he emphasized.

For about 10 years the chief and his top aides have had a choice — either driving a city car or using their own and getting an allowance.

The top officers in this town of 34,000 residents near San Jose get an allowance of $165 a month, plus insurance and repairs, for using their own cars.

City Manager John Maltie said the arrangement saves the city money. "We pay them 16 cents a mile and it would cost us 25 cents a mile for a city vehicle."

And it gives lawbreakers something to think about.

Intermediate and Secondary Education (RISE), the plan is described by state schools chief Wilson Riles as California's most important reform of junior and senior high schools in the last half century.

At schools in the plan, each student would have an adviser and a personal learning outline that could include community work, job training, and even a year off from school to work on a project.

Ontarian found innocent of brother-in-law killing

A San Bernardino County Superior Court jury has found Gene Autrey Jefferson, 31, of Ontario innocent of the shooting death of his brother-in-law in an Ontario bar last August.

The jury, after two hours of deliberation, returned the verdict after a 14-day trial in the courtroom of San Bernardino County Superior Court Judge Thomas Haldorsen.

It was the second jury trial for Jefferson who was accused of slaying his brother-in-law, Elton Lee, at the Friendly Corners Bar in Ontario on Aug. 23, 1975. Lee was shot twice as he came to the entrance of the bar following a fight involving four men earlier.

In the first trial, a West Valley Superior Court jury, after hearing testimony from numerous witnesses presented by Deputy Dist. Atty. Mary Fuller and attorney Raymond Youngquist, could not reach a verdict. Because of the 10 to 2 jury deadlock, the first trial was declared a mistrial. Jefferson was then ordered retried on the charge.

In the second trial, Mrs. Fuller presented the same case bringing numerous witnesses forward to testify that Jefferson was outside the bar with a man named Benny Green when Lee came to the door and was shot.

However, a tape of police conversation with Benny Green, was presented into evidence by Jefferson's second trial attorney, Joseph Johnston. The tape recorded Green first confessing to the murder and then later denying the confession.

This school teaches students how to win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The students pay very close attention at this special school. The only marks are nearly always handed out on a Tuesday, and in November.

The day, of course, is election day, and the grades — either pass or fail — are issued by the voters.

Campaign school here last week was sponsored by the Democratic Party. Attending were nearly 100 candidates and their managers in a replay of many such schools under way around the country.

The "professors" at these schools are battle-hardened veterans of the hustings who trek the political trails, ably with campaign suggestions, how-tos, print-outs, voter analyses and bits about party loyalty.

"Don't hang around the campaign headquarters," advised a veteran Democratic campaigner. "No one likes a candidate who sits in a back room at headquarters and acts like Lord Nelson."

Nearly all the recipients of this and other wisdom were challengers. Incumbents, who know how to win, didn't bother coming. The candidates scribble furiously like college students at a hot lecture.

"Precinct walking is the most important thing a candidate can do," offered Jack Mayesh, a veteran of many campaigns. "It's very, very boring, but it has to be done. Nothing beats actually meeting the voters, touching them and giving them a brochure, a pen, a ruler, something to remember you by."

Pomona Adult School

Fall registration open through Fri.

Pomona Adult School will hold fall-semester registration Monday through next Friday for classes scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 13.

Registrations will be taken at the adult school office at 800 S. Garey Ave., Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Monday through Thursday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

All courses are open to those 18 and older not attending high school.

Those seeking a high school diploma should indicate that fact before filling out registration cards. Through the adult school, 160 units of credit are needed for a high school diploma. Courses in English, U.S. history, U. S. government, science and math are required. Other units may be earned in art, music, homemaking, shop and business.

An 80 per cent attendance is expected of high school diploma candidates. Credit may be earned through GED tests.

Courses available this fall range from art, ceramics and macrame to small boat handling, florists techniques and clockworking. Vocational educational courses will include general office practice, PBX training, nurse aide training, shorthand, typing and bookkeeping.

Workshop series to help parents

A series of workshops designed to improve parent-adolescent relationships is planned by the Scott Clinic, Family Guidance Center, West Covina, starting Monday.

The workshops, open to parents and to those who work with adolescents, will be held at the Maxson Medical Building at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 16, 23, 30 and Sept. 13 and 20.

The fee is $10 per session or $40 for all five workshops.

Additional information is available by calling (213) 962-5137.

Registrars training session

A program to prepare residents to become a deputy registrars will be held today at 10 a.m. at 734 E. Mission Blvd., Pomona.

The training session is sponsored by the Pomona Democratic Central Committee and is open to the public.

Claremonters are better educated, more stable...

An age-sex pyramid reveals that the largest age group is 10 to 17, with 2,380 boys to 2,190 girls. They constitute 18 percent of the population.

The second largest category is the 22-34 age group with 16.8 percent of the population. There are 150 more women than men.

One of the smaller groups is the 18-21 set, which represents less than 10 percent.

The 3,500 college students living on campus are not included in the age-sex pyramid.

The typical Claremonters, according to the census, most likely is employed as a professional in the technical and related fields, and commutes to work in the Pomona Valley or greater East Los Angeles County area.

The report says that while a typical family might visit the Village shopping area a number of times a month, most shopping is done at Montclair Plaza or other major commercial areas.

Those questioned in the census said they are satisfied with the public facilities and services provided in Claremont.

The planning area, with Williams Avenue on the west, the Los Angeles National Forest on the north, the county line on the east, and American Avenue on the south, was divided into eight census tracts.

Tracts 20 and 21, all of Claremont south of the Santa Fe Railways tracks, have a higher ethnic concentration, a younger median age (25), and a total household income ($13,400) lower than Claremont community-wide.

A large number of multi-family housing facilities and comparatively high percentage of pre-schoolers identifies those tracts as the home of young couples and small children.

Tract 20, west of Indian Hill Boulevard, is characterized by its large portion of black population, as well as Spanish, Orientals and other non-whites which make up 31.2 percent of the non-whites in the city.

The tract also has a considerably higher vacancy rate (7.1 percent), generated by a turnover experienced by multi-family rentals and high unemployment rates (19.5 percent) of a somewhat transitory neighborhood (2.9 years).

Tract 92, west of Indian Hill Boulevard, between the railroad tracks and Foothill Boulevard, contains more than half the city's retired population, and less than five per cent combined minority population.

The median household income ($12,900) which is less than the citywide figure may be deceptively low in that it covers only income rather than accumulated assets.

The members of the retired community enjoy easy access to the Village which accommodates most daily shopping needs.

Tract 92, east of Indian Hill Boulevard, contains historical Claremont, a low median age of 25, 1.6 years of residency, a household income of $8,300 and the highest median education with two years of graduate work or a master's degree.

Tracts 17, 18, and 19, between Base Line Road and Foothill Boulevard, are a band of primarily single-family developments across the geographic middle of the planning area.

Well-established, yet modern neighborhoods, the report says, the tracts enjoy household incomes, average household sizes and lengths of residency consistently above city medians.

Tract 02, all of the planning area north of Base Line Road, has the highest median income (25,300), a large house size of 3.2 persons, a median age of 32 years, but a higher rate of vacancy and a considerably shorter median length of residency compared to the tracts immediately to the south.

Largely unincorporated, more than half the land is currently outside city limits.

Of significance is the fact that 55 percent of the population lives south of Foothill Boulevard and on less than one-third of the land area.

The report says that more than 90 per cent of the structures in the planning area are residential, and more than three-fourths of those are single-family.

While the number of families requiring housing has increased, the average size of the typical Claremont household has decreased to 3.2.

The report says that rental units and rates have increased, but the wide availability of moderately priced multi-family housing has held the latter increase to a minimum by creating a competitive market.

Claremont had an unemployment rate of 6.9 per cent, well below the 8.6 percent nationally. Women make up more than 40 percent of the total labor force.

With little commercial or industrial activity to support a large job market, less than 18 percent of those who live in Claremont work in Claremont.

State coastline battle heads into 2nd round

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Environmentalists and a business-labor coalition are preparing for the second round in their hard-fought battle over the future of California's 1,100-mile coastline.

The tug-of-war concerns which coastal protection bill the legislature should enact to carry out Prop. 20, the 1972 coastal initiative.

Each side is backing a different measure, and the struggle between the two groups easily could continue until the last minutes of this year's legislative session, scheduled to end Aug. 31.

But unless lawmakers become hopelessly deadlocked, they should approve some form of coast bill this session. The interests that blocked such a measure before the 1972 initiative now concede that passage is inevitable.

"Whether we like it or not the legislature is determined to pass — and the governor is determined to sign — a coastal bill this year," Assemblyman Barry Keene said in a recent speech.

"Given that reality, I deemed it my responsibility to assure that the measure is one that we can live with."

Keene, a Eureka Democrat, is carrying a coastal bill backed by the AFL-CIO and the California Chamber of Commerce, both of which carry substantial clout in Capitol hallways, offices and hearing rooms.

A rival measure by Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, also has powerful supporters: the state's major environmental groups and

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. It is strongly opposed by labor and business interests.

Both bills are outgrowths of the first skirmish over coastal controls, when earlier bills backed by environmentalists and development interests were killed in committee.

A second business-labor coastal bill, this one by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, is still alive. But environmentalists say they don't view it as a serious rival to their measure.

The struggle boils down to a question of how big — how big the state's role should be in controlling development, how big the coastal zone should be and how big the list of don'ts should be.

Backers describe the Keene bill as a compromise between the Smith and Cullen proposals and contend it would provide an adequate balance between environmental and economic considerations.

But environmentalists call the Keene bill a "bulldozer in sheep's clothing" and say its enactment would do little to protect the coast from overdevelopment.

"It really scales down the Smith bill," Sierra Club lobbyist John Zierold said. "It's an example of mediocrity being the opposite of good."

The biggest hurdle for both bills is probably the Senate, the graveyard for the earlier coastal bills.

The Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee begins hearings today on the Keene and Cullen bills. The Assembly Resources, Land Use and Wildlife Committee votes on the Smith bill Aug. 9.

The Senate's newest member, Democrat John Foran of San Francisco, could cast the key vote on the Keene and Cullen measures.

A measure identical to the Cullen proposal stalled in the Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee on a 4-4 vote before the legislature began July recess.

Foran, a former assemblyman who succeeded San Francisco Mayor George Moscone in the upper house, took office shortly before the recess began and was assigned to the Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee.

Foran was on vacation last week and could not be reached to say if he would back either bill. But Zierold describes him as a "good environmental vote."

Here are brief summaries of the three bills:

SMITH — This measure is patterned after an earlier bill carried by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, but supporters say that amendments have sharpened it. It has strong support from Brown. The bill would create a permanent state-wide coastal commission to oversee implementation of the bill by coastal cities and counties.

It would also temporarily extend the life of six regional coastal commissions set up under Prop. 20.

Cities and counties in a coastal zone would be required to bring their land-use plans into line with the bill's objectives.

Those goals include concentrating new development in already partly developed areas, protecting coastal wetlands and scenic areas and insuring public access to the shoreline.

Under certain circumstances, the statewide commission would serve as an appeals board for citizens who felt their local government was not following the bill's objectives.

The coastal zone covered by the bill would range from less than a 1,000 yards in some urban areas to up to five miles in "significant coastal estuarine, habitat and recreational areas."

KEENE — Barry Keene, faced with legislative deadlines, amended a bill dealing with herring to create his coastal measure.

It would also set up a permanent state coastal commission, but it would allow the regional commissions to go out of existence at the end of this year.

Environmentalists say that would put an impossible burden on the state-wide commission, which would be required to approve each local coastal plan within 90 days.

They also are critical of the bill's appeal system, which they say might discourage appeals by persons with limited financial resources.

Hawaiian gets 'plum' postal governorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate developer who serves as a campaign fund-raiser for President Ford is being handed a "plum" job on the Postal Service board of governors, five years after politics was supposed to have been eliminated from the Postal Service.

Hung Wai Ching, finance chairman for Ford's campaign in Hawaii, is being named to the board at least partly because of his efforts on behalf of the Republican party, according to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who recommended him for the postal job.

The post could pay Ching, a Honolulu developer, up to $13,600 a year for attending 12 meetings. Ching was confirmed by the Senate without debate last week.

Fong, asked about his part in the Ching appointment by Ford, said, "I did recommend him. That's politics. I have known him since high school and I know him to be a man of integrity."

Fong, who five years ago was one of the supporters of a bill designed to remove the Postal Service from the influence of politics, was asked if politics had anything to do with the selection of Ching as a member of the board of governors.

"Oh, yes," Fong replied. "He's worked very hard for the party. That was one of the things I thought of, along with his other activities."

Fong, in urging Senate approval of the bill to reorganize the Postal Service in 1971, vowed in an Aug. 30, 1970, Senate speech that "this bill will eliminate politics from the Post Office Department as we have seen it operate."

Since then, Fong, the ranking Republican on the Senate postal committee, has acknowledged selecting White House nominees to the board and to the Postal Rate Commission.

Fong, in a January speech, boasted of "recommending and helping place qualified people from Hawaii in high government posts."

He included in this group Dr. John Y. Ing, a Honolulu dentist and real estate developer who served two stints as a Postal Service governor. Ing failed to attend 17 of the 20 board meetings during his tenure, board records show. The meetings he did attend totaled 14 hours and 15 minutes, for which he was paid $17,066, records show.

Ching replaces Ing on the board.

One of the stated goals of the postal reorganization of 1971 was to remove politics from the mail service. Previously, members of Congress controlled appointments of postmasters in their districts and the job of postmaster general frequently was a reward that went to the president's campaign manager.

The Postal Reorganization Act also established the board of governors. The governors meet once a month. They are paid $10,000 per year, plus $300 for every monthly meeting attended.

"They fly here once a month, meet for a few hours, pick up their paychecks and fly home again," said George B. Gould, staff director for the House postal facilities subcommittee. Gould called the governorships "political plums."

U.S. under fire at summit meeting for nonaligned nations

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — The United States is expected to come under fire for its policy in at least three areas — Korea, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal — at the summit meeting of non-aligned nations.

Criticism also seems likely for American support of Israel, the operations of American multinational corporations and Washington's aid and economic cooperation policies.

Foreign ministers have been meeting since Wednesday in preparation for the summit, which opens Monday and continues through Thursday.

North Korea's vice premier and foreign minister, Ho Dam, got the anti-American ball rolling two hours after he arrived last Monday. He told reporters that the United States and South Korea were planning a war against the Communist half of the Korean peninsula.

"The war provocation maneuvers perpetrated by the U.S. against the Korean people are linked with its aggressive dream to block the peaceful reunification of Korea, conquer the whole of Korea and maintain its domination of Asia," Ho charged.

He said North Korea is ready to negotiate a peace treaty with Washington after U.S. troops pull out.

The United States says a peace settlement can only be made at a conference including South Korea and China as well as North Korea and the United States.

North Korea has sent more than 115 officials to the conference, and President Kim Il-sung is expected next week. North Korea was admitted to the nonaligned movement at the foreign ministers meeting in Lima, Peru, a year ago, but South Korea was excluded because of its close ties with the United States.

The South Korean trade mission in Sri Lanka is trying to counter the North Koreans' presence somewhat by reminding conference delegates that Sri Lanka closed the North Korean Embassy in 1971 after reports that it was helping to finance local insurgents.

Agitation for Puerto Rican independence is expected from Cuba and from the Puerto Rican Socialist Party (PSP), which sent observers to the Lima meeting. Their claim that Puerto Rico, despite its official status as a U.S. commonwealth, is a U.S. colony is listened to sympathetically by left-leaning Third World countries that were colonial territories until after World War II.

Ag. officials still see 'reasonable' food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials say the latest crop estimates give them no reason to change their current prediction that retail food prices will increase 3 to 4 per cent this year, compared with 8.5 per cent last year.

The August crop-production report that the Agriculture Department issued Thursday included a continued forecast as of Aug. 1 for a record corn crop of 6.19 billion bushels, 7 per cent above last year's mark.

Corn is the major ingredient of the feed for beef and dairy cattle, chickens, turkeys and hogs, the starting point for "big-ticket items" in the American grocery-buyer's shopping budget.

Such plentiful supplies of corn should mean "reasonable prices" for corn and other grain farmers, and more meat, eggs and dairy products available at moderate prices, according to Don Paarlberg, USDA's director of economics.

Paarlberg said growing conditions worsened during July in the upper Great Plains and the western Corn Belt, "but despite that, the crops that are growing out there are only a scratch below the previous record" for production of all U.S. crops.

The projected record corn harvest was 366 million bushels, "a sizeable reduction" below the report last month, which was based on July 1 field surveys by the Crop Reporting Board, Paarlberg noted.

The tightening-up could mean food prices will move "a shade the wrongside of the stability we foresee," he said.

Through mid-1977, it should be fairly subdued as far as increases are concerned," Paarlberg added.

The 6 per cent cut in the corn crop estimates from a month ago probably will push feed prices up, Paarlberg said, adding to the costs of cattle ranchers. Many of those cattle producers are in states like South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri and Wisconsin where the board found "poor conditions" for most grains, due to persistent pockets of drought and high, dry winds.

Poly gridders 'join' the Navy

The football season at Cal Poly starts a week from Sunday when the 1976 Broncos report to the campus to board buses for their training camp near San Diego.

Coach Andy Vinci, beginning his third season at Poly, is trying something new to get his team ready for the '76 season.

He is taking them out of town to train for three weeks at the Naval Amphibious Base on Coronado Island.

The Broncos will stay at the base until the morning of their season opener in four weeks — Sept. 11 — at home against Cal State Fullerton.

A first reaction from most people hearing about Vinci's plan is how can Poly afford this.

Easy, says Vinci. The coach explains it is cheaper.

"We're going to save about $7,000 doing this," he said. "So it's quite the opposite. Our economic situation almost forces us to do something like this. There is no more fun going to Coronado. It's just the cost is significantly cheaper."

How? The football program has to pay to use the dorms at Poly and for the food anyway.

Vinci says the rent and the cost of the food is much lower at the military base.

High influence

How did Vinci arrange this? It so happens when he was the head coach at the University of San Diego, one of his players was a son of the commanding officer at the base. Influence helps.

Besides the lower cost, Vinci also likes the idea of having his players on a military base.

"The team will be in an isolated situation," he says. "We should be able to concentrate on football with few distractions. For one thing, the girl friends won't be able to get on base."

After enjoying back-to-back winning seasons, Vinci realizes it might be difficult even matching the previous records of 5-3-2 and 6-4-1 because of the schedule.

This year's Broncos have the honor of meeting such foes as Mississippi State, North Texas State, Northern Arizona, UC Davis and Puget Sound.

It's safe to say this is Poly's toughest schedule yet.

"I really don't want to talk about goals with the type of schedule we have in front of us," Vinci said. "If the team we have now faced the 1974 schedule, it should go undefeated."

Obviously, the chief goal is to qualify for the NCAA Division II playoffs. Since the California Collegiate Athletic Association is down to only three football members, the conference title doesn't mean a whole lot any more.

"We figure we could go 7-3 and make the playoffs depending on which teams we lost to," Vinci said.

The energetic Poly coach definitely feels this team is the strongest in his three years here.

Experience back

"This the first time we have the advantage of returning an offensive unit with 10 or our 11 starters back," Vinci said. "We also have a lot more depth. For instance, we finally have two units on the offensive line and we have six linebackers rather than three."

Vinci has also changed his recruiting philosophy in bringing in 22 freshmen and only eight transfers from the junior colleges plus UC Riverside.

"I'm willing to say half our freshmen will end up playing a big part on this football team this season," the coach predicts.

This is also the first time Vinci is planning to make cuts.

"We're taking 75 to camp and expect to be down to 60 for the opener against Fullerton," he said.

One of Vinci's concerns about getting people to know about the season opener.

A big problem is the Fullerton game comes before the fall quarter begins at Poly. It is rare for the Broncos to play a home game this early in the season.

But Vinci plans to forget about the financial matters while at camp.

"We're going to strive for an excellent camp, a well-disciplined team and beat Fullerton," he said.

Regular season ends for 'Hawks

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Doug McMillan scored on a diving header Friday night in the 80th minute of play to give the Los Angeles Skyhawks a 1-1 American Soccer League tie with the Utah Pioneers.

The contest went into two overtimes, but neither team was able to score.

The contest marked the regular-season end for the ASL Western Division champion Skyhawks, who now face an undetermined foe in the playoff opener Aug. 21.

WATCHING THE BALL

Defending PGA champ Jack Nicklaus watches flight of ball after hitting an iron shot during second-round action in the PGA championship at Bethesda, Md. Nicklaus fired a 69 Friday and is at even par, 140, six shots behind leader Dr. Gil Morgan.

PGA lead in Morgan's care

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Longshot Dr. Gil Morgan, a non-practicing optometrist and the son of a tombstone dealer, shrugged off muggy heat and growing pressure with a solid, two-under-par 68 that staked him to a four-stroke lead Friday halfway through the 58th PGA national championship.

"I've played pretty good golf—for me," said the 29-year-old Morgan, a Wewoka, Okla. product who required two tries to gain his tour playing rights. He has yet to win a title and gained exempt status last season only with a strong performance in the last tournament of the year.

He put together a 36 hole total of 134, six shots under par for two trips over the hilly, 7,054-yard Congressional Country Club course, a playground of presidents in suburban Washington, D.C.

"A good score," mused Jack Nicklaus—the defending champion and still the man to beat in this national championship—after a long, thoughtful look at the leaderboard showing the relative positions of the pacesetters.

"Not bad. Not bad at all," said Nicklaus, holder of a record 14 major professional titles and grimly determined to turn around a less-than-impressive season with a fifth PGA title here.

He's well-placed at 140, even par. "Fine," Nicklaus said after a back nine rally produced a 32 and a second-round 69. "I'm in good position."

He continued, in answer to a question:

"I assess my position by the number of players ahead of me, by a look at the other good players and what they're going, by what I estimate may happen."

On that basis, Nicklaus' position was very good, indeed.

Although Morgan was in an unaccustomed position atop the field, the likeable, articulate man insisted he wouldn't fold.

"I've always felt I'm a steady player," he said. "I don't feel any great pressure because of being the leader. I plan to play my regular game Saturday and Sunday."

Later, however, another side of his thinking crept into his conversation.

"I'm in a position now where I need to make some money, five or six thousand, to lock up the top 60 (a position in the top 60 money-winners and an exemption for next year)," he said.

Also in front of Nicklaus are Tom Kite, alone at 138; Tom Weiskopf, Don January and Gary Player tied at 139. They were the only other players under par.

Kite, a curly-haired blond who has played his career in the shadow of his University of Texas teammate Ben Crenshaw, managed a 72 despite four bogeys in a row that, he said, "just killed me."

Weiskopf, the first-round leader, blew from a 65 to a 74 that included a double bogey six on the sixth hole, where he made eagle two on Thursday. This time he hit his third shot in a hazard and one-putted for a six.

"I missed three greens in the first eight holes and played them four over par," Weiskopf said. "But even with a 74 I didn't shoot myself out of it. There's still two rounds to go. A lot of things can happen."

January, a slow-moving, easy-going, 46-year-old veteran who capped a comeback from retirement with a victory in the prestigious Tournament of Champions, and the doughty little Player, winner of eight major professional titles, each managed a 69.

Dave Hill, a sometimes controversial character who needs only $1,404 to become a $1 million winner, fired the day's best round, a 66 that puts him at 142.

Many of the game's other leading lights fired and fell back in the sweltering heat.

Arnold Palmer, a 46-year-old living legend still followed by a faithful army, thrilled his gallery when he went one under par for the tournament with a birdie on the eighth hole. But he bogeyed four in a row immediately afterwards, struggled unhappily to a 42 on the back nine and finished with a 76-147.

"It's not my golf that needs straightening out," Palmer said. "It's my head."

Billy Casper, winner of more than 50 tour titles, shot 74-149.

Lasorda offered Pirate mgr. job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy Lasorda has been approached by Pittsburgh Pirates officials regarding the Pirates' managing job, the Los Angeles Times reported in its Saturday editions.

Lasorda, a Los Angeles Dodgers coach, reportedly said Friday when asked about the Pittsburgh feeler, "I won't lie about it. I was asked if I'd be interested in managing in Pittsburgh."

"I didn't say yes or no. I explained that I feel a great deal of loyalty to the Dodgers, which was my primary reason for turning down last year's offers."

Lasorda last year rejected offers to manage in Atlanta and Montreal to remain as the heir apparent to Dodgers' Manager Walter Alston.

The newspaper report said that Lasorda had been approached by Pirates officials earlier this week, and that he confirmed their interest Friday in Chicago, where the Dodgers were playing the Cubs.

There is speculation that both Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh and General Manager Joe Brown are set to retire.

Dodgers split with Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Russell slammed a two-run double off the left field wall with two out in the ninth inning Friday to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs and a split of their doubleheader.

Rick Monday scored from third on a wild pitch by Charlie Hough with two out in the 15th inning to give the Cubs a 3-2 triumph in the first game.

Monday singled with two out, went to third on a single by Jose Cardenal and scored when Hough unloaded his wild pitch.

The Cubs committed four errors in the first inning of the nightcap, but the Dodgers scored only one run. Dave Lopes reached on the first of two errors by first baseman Pete LaCock and came around to score on Monday's throwing error.

George Mitterwald hit his fourth homer of the year in the second inning after LaCock had walked. Dave Rosello tripled in the fourth following a single by Bill Madlock and a walk. Madlock, having stretched his hitting streak to 13 games, led off the sixth with his 12th homer. Two more runs scored in the sixth on a pair of Dodger errors around a double by Joe Wallis.

Ellie Rodriguez singled in a Los Angeles run in the fourth and the Dodgers picked up three more in the seventh when they knocked out Steve Renko, on run-scoring singles by Bill Buckner and Jim Lytle and a sacrifice fly by Ron Cey.

In the ninth, Lytle led off with a double and Darold Knowles replaced

Paul Reuschel on the mound for the Cubs. Buckner greeted him with a run-scoring single, making the score 7-6. Garvey singled, but Knowles got Cey to pop out on a bunt attempt and pinch-hitter Ted Sizemore to fly out to center.

Russell then smacked his game-winning double off the wall in left, driving in Buckner and Garvey.

In the opener, the Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the first inning and didn't score again until Monday came across on Hough's wild pitch. With two out in the first, Madlock and Mitterwald both singled and Manny Trillo followed with a triple.

The Dodgers scored a run in the fourth on singles by Buckner, Steve Garvey and Bill Russell. They tied it in the ninth when Cey led off with his 19th homer and sixth in 11 games.

Hough and Joe Coleman, both of whom came on in the 10th inning, then staged a duel of relievers before the Cubs finally broke through in the 15th.

Hough, who was making his 12th appearance in 15 games, suffered his fifth loss against nine triumphs. Coleman, who bailed out starter Steve Stone with two on and two out in the tenth, allowed three hits in the 5 1-3 innings he worked and picked up his first National League triumph against five losses. He has three saves in 36 appearances with the Cubs.

Buckner had four of Los Angeles' 11 hits in the first game. Madlock, the National League's leading hitter, had three hits for the Cubs.

Ricky Bell promises more aerial action

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Remember that dinky little pass I caught against Texas A&M?" mused Ricky Bell. "I look forward to catching a lot more this season."

Bell went 76 yards with the "dinky little pass" in the 1975 Liberty Bowl game, helping Southern California's Trojans loosen up an Aggies' defense which ranked first in college football against rushing. It led to an upset victory for the Cal team which lost its last four regular season games in the Pacific-8.

By rushing for 1,875 yards in 11 regular season games, Bell fell just six yards short of the NCAA record. But the Trojans fell far short of their primary goal—another conference championship and Rose Bowl trip in Coach John McKay's final season.

Quarterback Vince Evans completed only 29 of 99 pass attempts, "and he took a lot of the blame," said Bell, who caught three passes for 24 yards in the regular season.

"It's silly to place blame on one man when others don't do their jobs."

And we had receivers and offensive linemen in and out of the lineup all year. We never got our timing down," Bell added Friday in an appearance here with other college football stars making a preseason tour to promote the game.

When John Robinson, former assistant to McKay who spent one year with the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League, was named to succeed McKay as USC coach, he quickly hired Paul Hackett away from the University of California to coach Evans and the other quarterbacks.

"Hackett is a great coach," said Bell, which is the same thing Cal passing stars Steve Bartkowski, a 1974 All-American, and Joe Roth, a possible 1976 All-American, have said.

"You're not going to hear that quarterback criticism at Southern Cal this year," said Bell.

Another prediction was, "I can't see me rushing for 1,800 yards again but I know my per-rush average will be up. We're going to open up our offense more with passing and the defenses won't be able to gang up on me."

He ran into stacked defenses on most of his 357 carries last year. "But I had such good blocking that even when they knew I was coming, I still got four yards most times."

RAM STARTER

Ex-USC grid star Pat Haden will get his first start as a Los Angeles Ram tonight at quarterback as Los Angeles will tangle with the newly-formed Seattle Seahawks in Seattle's Kingdome. Gametime is set for 7:30 p.m.

Rams test Seattle, Zorn

SEATTLE (AP) — For the umpteenth time, Jack Patera was faced with answering the impossible. "When are the Seattle Seahawks going to start winning?"

"I don't know," said Patera, the no-nonsense coach of the first-year National Football League team, on the eve of Seattle's exhibition game against the Los Angeles Rams.

"As far as I know we'll win tomorrow (Saturday) night."

Okay, next question. "You've got to score points to beat the ..."

"Not necessarily," Patera interrupted. "If they don't score, the least we can do is tie."

Tonight's game, the third exhibition contest for both clubs, begins at 7:30 p.m. PDT before an expected crowd of over 60,000 in the Kingdome.

The talent-laden Rams, eyeing their fourth consecutive National Football Conference Western Division title, have shown in their first two exhibition games they know a goal line when they cross one. They opened with a 26-3 win over the NFL's other expansion team this season, Tampa Bay, and followed with a convincing 26-14 victory over Dallas last weekend.

The Seahawks, meanwhile, launched their first NFL season with a 27-20 loss to San Francisco and fell 27-16 to Chicago last week.

Patera said the Rams, who will start rookie quarterback Pat Haden, the former Southern California star and Rhodes scholar, are much stronger than either the 49ers or the Bears.

"Los Angeles is a legitimate Super Bowl contender. They have few weaknesses, if any," said Patera, in his first year as an NFL head coach.

"They have extraordinary depth. Their offensive and defensive lines and running backs are extraordinarily good. They're very effective in their ball control game. They know how to move the ball down the field."

Rams Coach Chuck Knox, who has seen Seattle only on film, said it is difficult to size up the Seahawks.

"I'd say they (Seahawks) are on par with Tampa, but it's really too early to tell who is good and who isn't," Knox said.

"Seattle appears to be playing good, sound, fundamental football."

For the second week in a row, Seattle will start do-everything, left-handed quarterback Jim Zorn, who has had a hand in all five of the team's touchdowns, passing for three and running for two. The 23-year-old free agent, who a year ago was cut by Dallas and then had a brief tryout with the Rams, leads the Seahawks in passing and scoring and is second in rushing.

"I look at this game the same as any other," Zorn said. "Every team you face is going to be tough. I know the Rams won't be any different."

NFL roundup

Steelers will see shotgun

By Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Steelers, after winning two consecutive Super Bowls, say they have things in perspective this year—so

C-M water polo team to host Brown, NMS

Claremont-Mudd water polo coach Page Remillard has announced that teams from Brown University and New Mexico State will participate in a special training camp and clinic at Claremont-Mudd in September.

The team from Brown, host for the 1976 NCAA Division I swimming championships, will arrive Saturday, Sept. 4 and New Mexico State will arrive the following Saturday. C-M athletes will arrive for the training camp Sunday, Sept. 12.

C-M's water polo squad went to Brown last year and played games against that school as well as Yale and Harvard.

"We hope that with such home-and-away experiences we can stimulate the growth of water polo outside of California to the extent that it has grown in California," said Remillard.

Brown will play Pomona-Pitzer in the Sagehen pool Sept. 15 at 2 p.m. while C-M hosts Long Beach State.

C-M, Brown and New Mexico State will participate in a training camp at UCLA Sept. 16-17. That camp will be run by UCLA coach Bob Horn, whose team placed third last year in the NCAA water polo nationals.

C-M will host Cal State Hayward Sept. 18 at 10 a.m. Other games during the stay of Brown and NMS in Claremont will include Brown-NMS and Brown-Cal Poly Pomona matchups, with sites and times yet to be established.

The visiting Brown and NMS athletes will also visit Newport Beach, Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm during their stay, which will end the evening of Sept. 18.

One of the water poloists from New Mexico State will be Mike Harbottle, polo and swimming star at Montclair High who graduated in June.

Griffin gives Woody support

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University Coach Woody Hayes has received an endorsement from one of his most illustrious pupils—two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin.

Currently trying to make the pros as the first-round draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals, Griffin scoffed at reports that his former coach was involved in recruiting irregularities.

Hayes has become embroiled in a controversy since admitting he turned Michigan State into the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations that led to probation for the East Lansing school.

The Michigan State News, a campus newspaper, charged that there had been instances of illegal recruiting at Ohio State.

Griffin said that if Michigan State is successful in having a counter-investigation launched against Ohio State, "they won't find anything like what happened at Michigan State."

"I don't know any players who got any money from Coach Hayes or anybody at Ohio State," Griffin said.

On the other hand, he did say that several of his college teammates had been tempted by other schools.

"I know several players on our team (Ohio State) who got stuff or were offered stuff from Michigan State. They got things like clothing, but they gave it back," he said, declining to name any specific players.

Two other former Buckeyes joined Griffin in defending Hayes.

Ken Kuhn, a starting linebacker for the Buckeyes in their last three Rose Bowl appearances, called Hayes "an honest man who I can respect. I'll say this, if anything was going on at Ohio State, Woody Hayes would not know about it. He would stop it if he found out about it."

Jim Hietikko, an offensive line standout for the Buckeyes in the 1950s, described Hayes as "simon pure." He said Hayes "is honest."

PRACTICE RUN Cyclists Mark Orr, Andy Dunn and Russ Harper take a spin through downtown Claremont course in preparation for Sunday's Claremont Criterium, a day of bicycle racing promoted by the Mt. Baldy Cycling Club.

Claremont site for cycle race

Over 100 participants are expected Sunday in Claremont for the first annual Claremont Criterium, a bicycle race promoted by the Mt. Baldy Cycling Club.

The race, sponsored by the Southern California Cycling Association and sanctioned by the United States Cycling Federation, will be contested in nine categories: midgits (3 miles), intermediate (6 miles), senior IV, veterans, women and senior III (12 miles each), juniors, senior II (15 miles each) and senior I (21 miles).

The first race (midgits) will begin at 8 a.m., with the final race (senior I) scheduled for 12:25 a.m. Prizes range from $25 for midgits to $200 for senior I.

The course, approximately 0.6 miles per lap, will be run counter-clockwise on Harvard, Bonita and Yale avenues and First Street. The course will be closed to all automobile traffic.

Registration will begin at 7 a.m., with midgits' safety inspection at 7:30 a.m. Post entry fees range from $3 for midgits to $5 for senior I.

Feeney asked to resign

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals President August A. Busch Jr. has called for the resignation of National League President Charles Feeney and John A. Gaherin, the major league's chief labor negotiator.

The angered remarks by the 77-year-old Busch during a meeting of National League club owners Thursday in Phoenix, Ariz., were released in a statement here.

"We (National League) have been kicked from pillar to post," Busch told the other owners. "We have received and accepted incompetent leadership and the results are obvious."

Angered over the acceptance of the recent labor agreement with the player's union and the handling of league matters in general, Busch said: "The time has come for a fresh start. The time has come for new ideas and new leadership."

Of the players agreement, he said: "What kind of influence and guts does our league office have? St. Louis, Atlanta, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, the Mets, Houston and to some degree San Diego all requested a meeting before a final vote was taken on the labor contract."

"One-half of the teams in our league wanted a meeting and our president could not or would not go to Commissioner (Bowie) Kuhn in our behalf. I wonder what would have happened if one-half of Lee MacPhail's (American) league wanted a meeting. My guess is he would have demanded one from the commissioner and gotten it."

Busch called Gaherin's negotiations on the player's agreement with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, a "mismatch."

"If anyone does not believe that we had had our ass kicked in this labor matter, they are dead wrong. I have personally talked to every owner in this room, and everyone knows that John Gaherin was not up to the task," Busch said.

"I think the whole John Gaherin situation can be summed up by one question: Would anyone in this room, faced with a major labor fight concerning the welfare and possible continuation of his business, hire John Gaherin to represent him and feel he had the best man in the world?"

"No matter what anyone says, in truth and in fact, the American League has become the more influential of the two leagues. The reason does not stem from the quality of ownership, but from the quality of the professional leadership."

"Is there anyone in this

Success sells in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Success sells—and so are Cincinnati Reds tickets.

Despite having the second smallest fan market among major league teams, the Reds can break baseball's all-time attendance record by averaging 40,000 fans per game for their last 26 home games.

Running 290,000 ahead of last year's pace when they drew 2.3 million, Cincinnati is within striking distance of the 14-year mark of 2.7 million set by the 1962 Los Angeles Dodgers.

"People around here are just caught up with baseball," said Dale Stoeber, director of ticket sales for the Reds.

The Reds have attracted 1.7 million fans so far and figure to top the two million mark for the fourth straight year in the upcoming 13 game home stand beginning Monday.

Stoeber says the Reds are currently averaging 35,800 per game and would need to draw a million fans for the last two months of the season to break the Dodger record.

The New York Mets of 1970 and the Cleveland Indians of 1948 ranks second and third on the all-time list, drawing more than 2.6 million.

The Reds are currently No. 2 in attendance behind the Dodgers for this season, but could dethrone Los Angeles with a strong finish.

The Dodgers, at 1.9 million, hold a 200,000 fan edge over the Reds.

Forum bout for Zarate

INGLEWOOD — Carlos Zarate, undefeated WBC Bantamweight Champion, returns to Southern California to defend his title against British and Australian Empire Champion, Paul Ferreri, Saturday night, August 28, at the Forum in Inglewood.

Zarate, perhaps holding the most awesome knock-out record in the history of boxing, has racked up 41 consecutive victories, 40 by way of knockout. He recently captured the 118 pound crown by stopping Rodolfo Martinez in May at The Forum.

Ferreri, 28, brings with him a 6-3-4 record.

Citrus offers season tickets

Football fans of the Citrus College Owls may watch all of the Owl's home games at reduced rates by purchasing season tickets now at the Citrus College Bookstore.

An individual season pass costs $5 and entitles the purchaser to attend all five home games. A family season ticket, which admits an entire family to the five home games, may be purchased for $10.

The season tickets allow a considerable savings over single admission prices which are $2 for general admission and 50 cents for high school students holding a student body card.

Citrus fans should see some exciting football this fall, as the Owls, defending Mission Conference champions, have been listed as possible contenders in the Jr. Rose Bowl game to be played Dec. 11 at Pasadena's Rose Bowl stadium.

The Citrus team, coached by John Strycula, was ranked No. 3 in California last season.

The first home game will be held at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 18, with the Owls competing against Long Beach City College. Citrus opens the season at Fullerton on Sept. 10.

Sparky won't push buttons

CHICAGO (AP) — If you want to see Sparky Anderson's snow white hair stand on end, just call him a push-button manager.

"Push-button manager, my foot!" says the most successful manager in Cincinnati Reds' history. "Some of these people had better take good looks at their own organizations before making statements like that."

Anderson then reeled off the names of nine players "who are only in their second year in the majors" and then added the names of George Foster, Ken Griffey and Cesar Geronimo.

Griffey, with a .330 average, and Geronimo, at .311, are among the National League's leading hitters. Foster has a .326 average and is a cinch to lead the league in runs batted in.

"Griffey was a 29th-round draft choice," said Anderson. "Not the 29th player picked but picked on the 29th round. Geronimo was a throw-in when we made that big deal with Houston. And the San Francisco Giants didn't want Foster."

"Look at Dan Driessen and Doug Flynn. We signed them both as free agents. Somebody somewhere had better look around and find out why they're not winning and we are. For the last

Signups set for P-P-K competition

Interested youths ages 8-13 may register now at Fair City Ford in Pomona for the 1976 Punt-Pass-Kick competition.

Registration forms are located on the showroom floor. Youngsters must be accompanied by parent or guardian to register.

The exact date of the competition has not yet been set, but the Indian Hill Village parking lot will be the site, probably in late September.

Bill Boland will enter Rocking Chair Derby

DEL MAR — Bill Boland, who as a 16-year-old apprentice jockey, won the 1950 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes aboard King Ranch's Middle-ground, will don silks for the first time since he retired in 1969 as one of America's top riders to compete in the fourth annual "Rocking Chair Derby" day will be 1:30 p.m., a half-hour earlier than normal.

A native of Corpus Christi, Texas, Boland first rode in California at Santa Anita during the winter of 1950, riding against another talented apprentice, Bill Shoemaker.

Patterning his style after that of "The Master," Eddie Arcaro, he quickly attained prominence and achieved instant fame when he booted Middle-ground to victory over Arcaro and C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince in the Kentucky Derby, becoming the youngest rider in history to win the classic. Boland was only the second "bug boy" to win the Derby, Ira (Babe) Hanford having accomplished the feat in 1936 on Bold Venture, who, coincidentally, was the sire of Middle-ground.

Hill Prince and Arcaro won the Preakness Stakes, but Boland then made it two-out-of-three in the Triple Crown, with a triumph on Middle-ground in the Belmont Stakes.

During his career, Boland won 2,049 races from 17,241 mounts which earned $14,856,295. He won a second Belmont Stakes in 1966 astride Amberoid and was rider of numerous stakes-winners, including Beau Purple, nemesis of Kelso in several important races; Dedicate, Better Self, To Market, Outer Space, Poker, Oh Johnny.

He gained his greatest fame in the West as the pilot of Polite Stable's Terrang, guiding the son of Khalid to several stakes successes at Santa Anita, including the 1959 Santa Anita Handicap in which they teamed to defeat Hillsdale and Royal Living.

Boland, now a Thoroughbred trainer on the Eastern circuit, will be journeying to Del Mar from his New York home for the "Rocking Chair Derby," which was won a year ago by George Taniguchi. In addition to Taniguchi, past winners Dean Hall (1973) and Ken Church (1974) will be back in action.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — One night before, a fastball had slammed into his head and knocked him unconscious.

Now a dull ache throbbing behind his left ear as Hal McRae stood nervously in the Kansas City Royals dressing room, unsure for the first time in his life whether he wanted to put on a uniform.

Charley Lau watched and swept it all in. Quietly, without attracting attention to himself, Coach Lau spoke with McRae in private. He told him there must be no hesitation.

"Take the first pitch," Lau said. "No matter where the ball comes, just watch it coming. You'll be all right."

McRae watched that first pitch sail across the plate without flinching a muscle. Then, visibly more relaxed, he went out and batted four hits.

Four years earlier, a raw rookie named Joe Rudi asked Lau, then a first-year batting instructor at Oakland, if he had any future in baseball. Lau assured him he did, and afterward the two were seen daily at the batting cage, working hour after hour, Lau observing from every angle and making suggestions in his soft, level voice.

This June, shortly after an abortive trade set Rudi's market value as a baseball player at $1 million, he told a writer, "I'd be driving a truck in Modesto today if it weren't for Charley Lau."

McRae, after uncorking three base hits one game this month and zooming to the top of the American League batting charts, pointed at Lau sitting alone across the room.

"There's the man who got me going," he said. "Give the credit to Charley Lau."

Testimonials for the Kansas City hitting instructor, a virtual unknown to millions of baseball fans, gush forth from many of the brightest stars in the game.

Still ruggedly handsome at 43, Lau is an intensely private and unpretentious man who does not ask for the praise his students lavish upon him, but treasures their friendship.

A .255 lifetime hitter, he has acquired a vast following among baseball insiders for helping young men, who grab the headlines and most of the money, excel in a way he never could.

"I help them make money, so naturally they say nice things about me," Lau said with a smile when a compliment was passed along to him.

But the players speak of him as a friend and confidant, a patient, tireless teacher who meets with them anytime they ask and works as hard as they are willing to work.

"Whatever success I've had I owe to Charley," says first baseman John Mayberry, the runnerup in last year's Most Valuable Player voting. "But he's more than that. If I ran out of gas at three o'clock in the morning, I could call Charley. So could anybody else in this room."

This year the Royals, while building a wide lead in the Western Division, are pacing the American League in virtually every offensive category, including team batting. And they are probably giving Lau, who seeks no personal acclaim, the deepest satisfaction he has ever experienced in 16 years as a player and eight as a coach.

"I just want us to win," he said. "We've worked a long time to have what we've got today. I'm proud to be a part of that, but I'm only a part of it."

Charter Party rates as Los Al favorite

LOS ALAMITOS — A lineup of 10 of the most talented 3-year-olds in the country, including five stakes winners already at the summer meeting, will conclude the week's activities at Los Alamitos tonight in the featured $15,000 Sophomore Stakes.

In what promises to be the finest array of 3-year-olds since the $90,200 Los Alamitos Derby earlier in the summer, the Sophomore has attracted recent stakes winners Charter Party, Boogie Blues, China Doll Su, Ocean Arms and Two To Go along with Have More Fun, Hank's Page, Lots Of Diamonds, Motogo and Miss Tudor Rebel.

Post time for all the action is 8 p.m.

Charter Party, high-weight at 125 pounds, figures to be the favorite in the 400-yard event after his runnerup effort in the Derby and a victory in the Double Bid Stakes. In all, he's earned more than $40,000 as a 3-year-old for trainer W.D. Taylor although his last start in a race against his own age group was a disappointing third in the Laddie Stakes as the even money favorite.

Boogie Blues, who won that Laddie Stakes from the extreme outside position, is back in the 10 hole again for the Sophomore. He's won four of seven lifetime starts for trainer John Cooper but has suffered three straight defeats.

Completing the field is Lots of Diamonds, who lost a narrow decision to Charter Party in the Double Bid Stakes, and Hank's Page, runnerup to Windy's Request in the $204,000 Golden State Derby at Bay Meadows this past spring.

Aztecs host Tornado

LOS ANGELES — The L.A. Aztecs can become the only team to make the North American Soccer League playoffs for the past three years when they battle the Dallas Tornado tonight at El Camino College.

The game will be broadcast live on radio station KKOP-FM, 93.5, with Dave Greene at the mike. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The game promises to be a high-scoring and wide open affair based on the nine goals scored in the first meeting between the two clubs. George Best scored two goals in that game and Dallas' Jeff Bourne had the hat trick. Both men have 33 points on the league scoring chart.

Superstars champion Kyle Rote Jr. will be playing on the front line for the Tornado, Rote being one of two professional athletes who have twice won the Superstars Competition.

When a woodpecker pecks on a tree, it is usually searching for food. Using its strong, chisel-like bill, the woodpecker digs out insects living in the cracks in the bark of trees.

The woodpecker's strong claws grip the tree firmly while the stiff tail feathers brace the bird as it leans backward. It uses its long, sharp tongue to spear food inside deep holes.

In the springtime a woodpecker calls to its mate by drumming out a loud tattoo on a dry limb, telephone pole, or the roof of a house.

It also uses its bill to dig nest holes in dead trees. The woodpecker leaves fine chips of wood on the bottom to cushion the white eggs.

Most kinds of woodpeckers are our friends. They eat insects that harm trees.

Only a few woodpeckers sometimes harm trees. The unwelcome ones are the sapsuckers. As their name tells us, they drill rows of holes in the bark of trees and drink the sap as it drips from the holes.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, c/o this newspaper, Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, Aug. 15, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today if money is being exchanged between you and a friend. A misunderstanding could arise over something silly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Indecisive people will not wear well today. Don't get seriously involved with anyone who cannot make up her own mind.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a pal who is always prying into your affairs. Today, her curiosity is at a higher peak than usual. Watch what you say.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're prone to take risks today, not so much yourself but on others. There's a good chance you'll back the wrong horse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're uncertain about how something you want to do might effect others, it's best you don't try it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It would be a mistake today to pretend you know something about a matter of which, in truth, you know very little.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let yourself get inveigled into a business situation today with a fast-talking sales type who usually fails at what he attempts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone whose advice you sought will get a little annoyed with you when she sees you do just the opposite of what you agreed upon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not overly industrious today. You'll look for shortcuts for tasks requiring time and patience. Bungled projects are likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you want your friends to treat you with warmth and respect today, you must treat them in the same manner yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you're likely to pack it in just when the end is in sight. To be a winner you'll need more staying power.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may be asked to relay important information to someone today. Write the message down. Your memory can't be trusted.

Your Birthday, Aug. 15, 1976

This year you will explore new avenues in order to add to your resources. Your prospects look encouraging, provided you don't go off on tangents.

Almanac

The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Aug. 14, the 227th day of 1976. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, President Harry Truman announced Japan's unconditional surrender. It was the end of World War II.

On this date: In 1784, the first Russian colony in Alaska was founded on Kodiak Island.

In 1848, the Oregon Territory was organized.

In 1900, the Boxer Rebellion in China ended as U.S. Marines helped capture Peking.

In 1935, Congress passed the Social Security Act.

In 1941, during World War II, it was disclosed that President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had signed the Atlantic Charter in their meeting at sea.

In 1947, the United States canceled about $1 billion in debts owed by Italy.

Ten years ago: Chicago police clashed with rioting whites after three simultaneous black marches into all-white neighborhoods.

Five years ago: The British army sent more troops to the border between the Irish Republic and Northern Ireland to face a widening campaign of arms smuggling and sabotage.

One year ago: The president of Bangladesh was killed in a military coup which overthrew that country's 3 1/2-year-old government.

Today's birthdays: Circus impresario John Ringling North is 73 years old.

Thought for today: It is a mistake to look too far ahead. Only one link in the chain of destiny can be handled at a time — Winston Churchill.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago, Congress resolved to offer all deserters from the British army a secure refuge, the privileges and immunities of natives and five and one-quarter acres of land.

Polish government will ration sugar

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish government is going to ration sugar at a controlled price for the first time since World War II in an attempt to ward off hostile demonstrations.

Edward Gierek's Communist regime said this week that hoarders were forcing it to issue ration stamps to workers. Those who work find it hard to buy sugar, a scarce commodity, because others line up for it during working hours and buy large quantities.

The hoarders are buying in anticipation of higher prices next year. Price hikes were announced in June for many foodstuffs, including sugar, but were shelved after protests and strikes.

Vice Premier Tadeusz Pyka said all working people will receive coupons for an allotment of sugar at 44 cents a pound. Any sugar over the allotment will cost 99 cents a pound.

Pyka said the country's production of beet sugar might be only 2 million tons this fall, enough for domestic and industrial use, "but there may be not enough for export."

He blamed poor weather.

Polish food prices have been frozen since 1970, when riots over planned increases drove Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka from power. Gierek, his successor, stabilized food prices by government subsidies, a chief reason for the popularity of his administration.

The government said last December that food price increases were inevitable and promised consultations in advance. But the June 24 announcement of the increases said they would take effect June 28, leaving only two working days for consulting.

The workers took to the streets in the Warsaw area and the industrial city of Radom 60 miles to the south, and staged sitdown strikes and work slowdowns in many factories.

Six men were convicted of taking part in protests that turned into riots in Radom, and seven others were convicted of blocking a railway line and derailing a train in Warsaw.

LOSE FAT

"MODEL-ETTS" HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT NO CALORIE COUNTING! NO EXERCISES! NO SPECIAL DIETS!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of extra fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS

These New York doctors discovered a food adjuvant called "MODEL-ETTS." "Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found: 1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever. 2. 98% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight. "Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjuvant—not a drug. So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

One "Model-etts" wafer has the hunger-satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

Busing: hot issue and getting hotter

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It's dark as 12-year-old Mark Jump hurries toward his neighborhood school. There, he will join about 30 other youngsters on a yellow school bus which will take them across town.

Mark is white. His new school is in a predominantly black neighborhood.

About the same time, Babbette Norfleet, 12, leaves her home in a housing project on the other side of Louisville. Shortly, she will board a bus for a 25-minute ride through the rolling Kentucky countryside to suburban Middletown.

Babbette is black. Middletown is not.

Mark and Babbette are among 22,600 students, half of them black, who participated this past school year in the massive and often wrenching social experiment called forced busing. There were 119,000 students enrolled in the school district.

Their movements were dictated by the federal courts, which found Louisville's school system to be unconstitutionally discriminatory.

Busing is one of the most emotional and controversial experiments in the nation today. It turns law-abiding parents into rock-throwing rebels. It disrupts public budgets. It swings elections.

But what does it do to the kids? Mark recalls his fear nine months ago when a rock crashed through the window of his school bus, showering the children aboard with broken glass. His friend was cut.

"I was afraid," Mark said. But as time went on, he added, the fear lessened. He now says it's his parents who are frightened, not he.

"I like it here better than my old school. The building's much newer and the teachers aren't so old fashioned," the youngster said.

Interviews with other children on Louisville's buses brought much the same reaction. For most kids, busing is no big deal. There are no traumas, no nightmares, no instant geniuses, no unexplained dunces. Just kids.

Adults are a different matter.

One white Middletown student, 8-year-old Kendra Bryant, wrote a letter to the Louisville Courier Journal, saying, "I think busing is good because I've gotten to meet two new friends I would not have met before."

The Bryants received a flood of abusive telephone calls and hate letters as a result of Kendra's letter.

Gwen Bryant, Kendra's mother, said one of the letters was signed by the Ku Klux Klan and another by the National White People's Party. At least one of the callers identified himself as a member of the KKK.

Kendra, unconcerned about the names she was called in the hate mail, said, "You should have seen the writing on those letters. They write worse than first graders."

"What parents don't understand is that we're all the same inside," said 11-year-old Doris Holloway, a black student at Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary, the same school Mark attended.

"Even if you're red or green or purple, it'll still be the same. You have a heart, a brain, a nose and eyes. You're just a different color outside."

Doris, who expects to be bused outside of King's district to a school in a largely white area this fall, said she looked forward to it as a chance to get to meet new people and "observe how they live."

"Parents should give busing a chance to see if it works. If it's bad, they can do something about it. But if it's going on fine, they should leave it alone."

Doris' best friend, Diane Guess, 12, is looking forward to what she calls an "adventurous experience."

"Your mother and father will probably tell you that they're (white students) different from you and have different ways, but you should go and see for yourself. Sometimes your mother and father could be wrong."

"The children have adapted much faster than I expected," said Evelyn Ashkenaz, a student counselor at King. "Their problems are the small petty ones of childhood."

"Somebody snatched somebody else's pencil. There may be a quick tussle, but it's all forgotten by three o'clock. But when the child goes home and his parents ask what happened in school, it's all blown out of proportion."

"I have one child, whose mother insisted she resume taking medication (a tranquilizer), the doctor said she no longer needed. The little girl said to me one morning, 'You know Mrs. Ashkenaz, my mother needs the pills, not me.'"

Bernard Minnis, associate superintendent for human relations in the Louisville system, said many of his department's programs are directed toward parents.

"You can't just dismiss the parents and their feelings, that's why we spend a lot of effort on the parents in the community ... not trying to sell desegregation, but trying to curb the overt behavior toward the school and the children."

"We do not deal with preparing people so much for busing itself, but to ease the strain caused by desegregation and busing."

"It's really unfair to ask if these programs are working. Over-all, we could say within our own gut feeling that we've seen change but we can't really point out statistics and say this is so."

"We just know that the people we've worked with aren't out there throwing rocks."

Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, a psychologist and professor emeritus at New York City College, says parents who violently demonstrate against busing, "inflicting their children with their own racial bias ... are examples that tell the detriment of segregated schools."

He compared the need for federal intervention in desegregation with earlier cases requiring federal intervention when parents resisted inoculation of children.

"These parents are the product of segregated schools," Clark said. "They don't even understand what they are inflicting on their children."

No more plowing?

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Is it possible to farm without turning over the soil?

Some soil experts feel plowing is unnecessary and wasteful and expect to prove it. In one test, researchers at the University of Nebraska School of Agriculture, with a grant from Phillips Petroleum Co., start work this fall on an experimental system in which everything from planting to harvesting will be done without tilling the soil.

Enzymes vital to digestion

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Enzymes, the tiny protein molecules which speed up chemical reactions, are found in all living organisms. They are essential to virtually all vital bodily processes in human beings, such as the digestion of food.

As an example, doctors have found that before milk and milk products can be properly digested — absorbed by our bodies and used as fuel — lactose, a large sugar molecule found in milk, must be broken down and converted to smaller molecules. This is accomplished by an enzyme called lactase which is found in the small intestine.

Extra pears to be dumped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Pear growers expect to dump 20,000 to 30,000 tons of fruit this year for lack of a market, a spokesman said Friday.

Cameron Girton, manager of the California Canning Pear Association, said a big crop, a heavy carryover of canned pears from last year, the cannery strike and the high cost of labor all contribute to the bad situation.

A majority of the processors have agreed to a price of $105 a ton for No. 1 Bartlett pears this year, Girton said. Last year's price was $125 and the 1974 price was $165.

"Unfortunately this does not mean consumers will enjoy lower prices for canned pears this fall," Girton said. "Increased wage rates for cannery workers and other escalating costs of processing and distribution will eliminate any possibility of price reduction on retail shelves."

Too early for verdict on oil pipeline delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say it's too early to tell if faulty welding along the Trans-Alaska oil pipeline will delay the project, but they say Congress could cause a delay in completion of a proposed natural gas pipeline if it insists on approving its route.

Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe said during a news briefing that he did not know if inspection and repair of 3,955 "problem" welds in the oil pipeline would delay completion.

"Not one drop of oil will flow through the Alaska pipeline until it has been thoroughly tested and we are assured of the integrity of the pipeline," he said. "Nobody can say at this point there will be any delay in the completion date."

Meanwhile, a Federal Energy Administration official contended that Congress may cause delays in getting Alaskan natural gas to energy-lacking areas of the country via the gas pipeline.

John A. Hill, deputy administrator of the FEA, told a House Commerce subcommittee Thursday that Congress should not insist on approving whatever natural gas pipeline route is chosen by the president.

"The longer we delay, the more expensive such a project will be," Hill said.

The selection by the president is expected next year, after a study by the Federal Power Commission and comment from other federal agencies.

"We believe that requiring the Congress to affirmatively endorse a particular route could create the very stalemate that the legislation was designed to avoid," Hill said. "Should such a stalemate occur, the end result of the legislation could be a serious delay in the construction of the pipeline."

RARELY FOUND GOUT STOOL

Antiques

QUESTION: After reading your article about a piece of furniture from the Zoar community in Ohio, I decided you might possibly be able to tell me what we have since it is a product from the same locality. Relatives think it might be a child's wash bench since it is only 17 inches high. The top measures 12x24 inches.

My enclosed photo will give you an idea of the shape of this stool. It is made of pine, is very lightweight, having a cleated top to which four splayed legs are attached. These extend up through the top and are wedged by a piece of wood. No nails were used to make this piece of furniture.

When this stool was given to us, it had a horrible rust and mustard-colored grained finish which we removed by using lye water. Can you give me some idea what this handy little stool was meant to be used for and its value? P. C.

ANSWER: You have a "gout" stool, a form rarely found. I would estimate its value to be around the $100 figure.

QUESTION: Enclosed is a colored photo of an old hitching post that has been in my family for many years. It is made of iron, weighs about 60 pounds and is 41 inches tall. The markings on the top plate are "Wilson and Strickland, Watertow, N.Y." I would like to know the possible value of this double hitching post. I have never seen another like it, but would like to locate something similar.

J. DeR.

ANSWER: You have a rare double hitching post. I would estimate its value to be around the $300 figure.

It happened in Pomona

City Fathers may come and City Fathers may go, but throughout Pomona's long history I defy you to name me a group of civic officials which has even come close to equaling the record for frugality that was set by this city's Board of Trustees in the year 1888.

You have only to check the July 12 issue of The Pomona Progress for that year and there you will find convincing proof that those worthy officials were past masters at conserving the taxpayers' dollars. The story read:

"At a meeting of the Board of Trustees yesterday, the street sprinkling contract was annulled on the grounds that a city of the fifth class cannot legally expend public money for such a purpose."

There are some, of course, who take issue with my choice of that 1888 Board of Trustees for frugality honors. It is their contention the award should rightfully go to a group of city officials which came along 20 years later. To substantiate their position, they quote from the Aug. 4, 1908, Progress Bulletin where it was recorded:

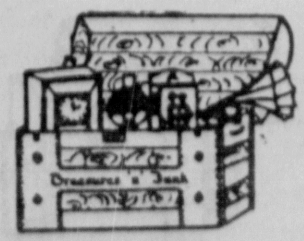

"A representative of the Burrough's adding machine company appeared before the Pomona Board of Trustees on Tuesday afternoon to present the merits of the machine. The Board stated that the city does not have sufficient work to warrant the purchase of such a machine."

Well maybe those who would confer the frugality award honor on Pomona's 1908 Board of Trustees have a valid argument. Certainly, if they had added another action taken at that same Aug. 4 meeting, I would be inclined to go along with them. As the final business transacted that day, the Trustees appointed G. W. Childers, janitor of the First Methodist Church, as a deputy city marshal in order that the city wouldn't have to pay for a watchman while building improvements were being made at the church.

The Living History Center, Philadelphia's $11.5 million Bicentennial project, nearing completion.

From the American revolution until now

A movie screen the size of a seven-story building.
A playground made up of 10-foot replicas of colonial toys.

Twenty-eight audio-visual exhibits tracing America's history from the time of the Revolution to the present.

These are some of the features of one of the nation's most ambitious Bicentennial projects, the $11.5 million Living History Center in Philadelphia. Built by the city, the spacious hall houses shows and exhibits put together by Philadelphia '76, the city's Bicentennial agency, in conjunction with the prestigious design firm of Raymond Loewy International. The center opened to the public in April and has already been visited by hundreds of thousands of people from all over the world.

"In the past, Philadelphia was known for its wealth of colonial-era history and artifacts," said Richard C. Bond, chairman of Philadelphia '76. "With the Living History Center our city now boasts unique insights into our past, present and future, depicted on film, slides, sound tracks and graphics."

The outstanding feature of the center is its 875-seat IMAX theater with the world's largest screen, 6,500 square feet, some three times larger than those used in Cinemascope productions. IMAX is a new huge-image film technique utilizing negatives nine times larger than the 35 millimeter film used in most motion pictures.

Philadelphia's Living History

Story by Joseph H. Firman
PB staff writer

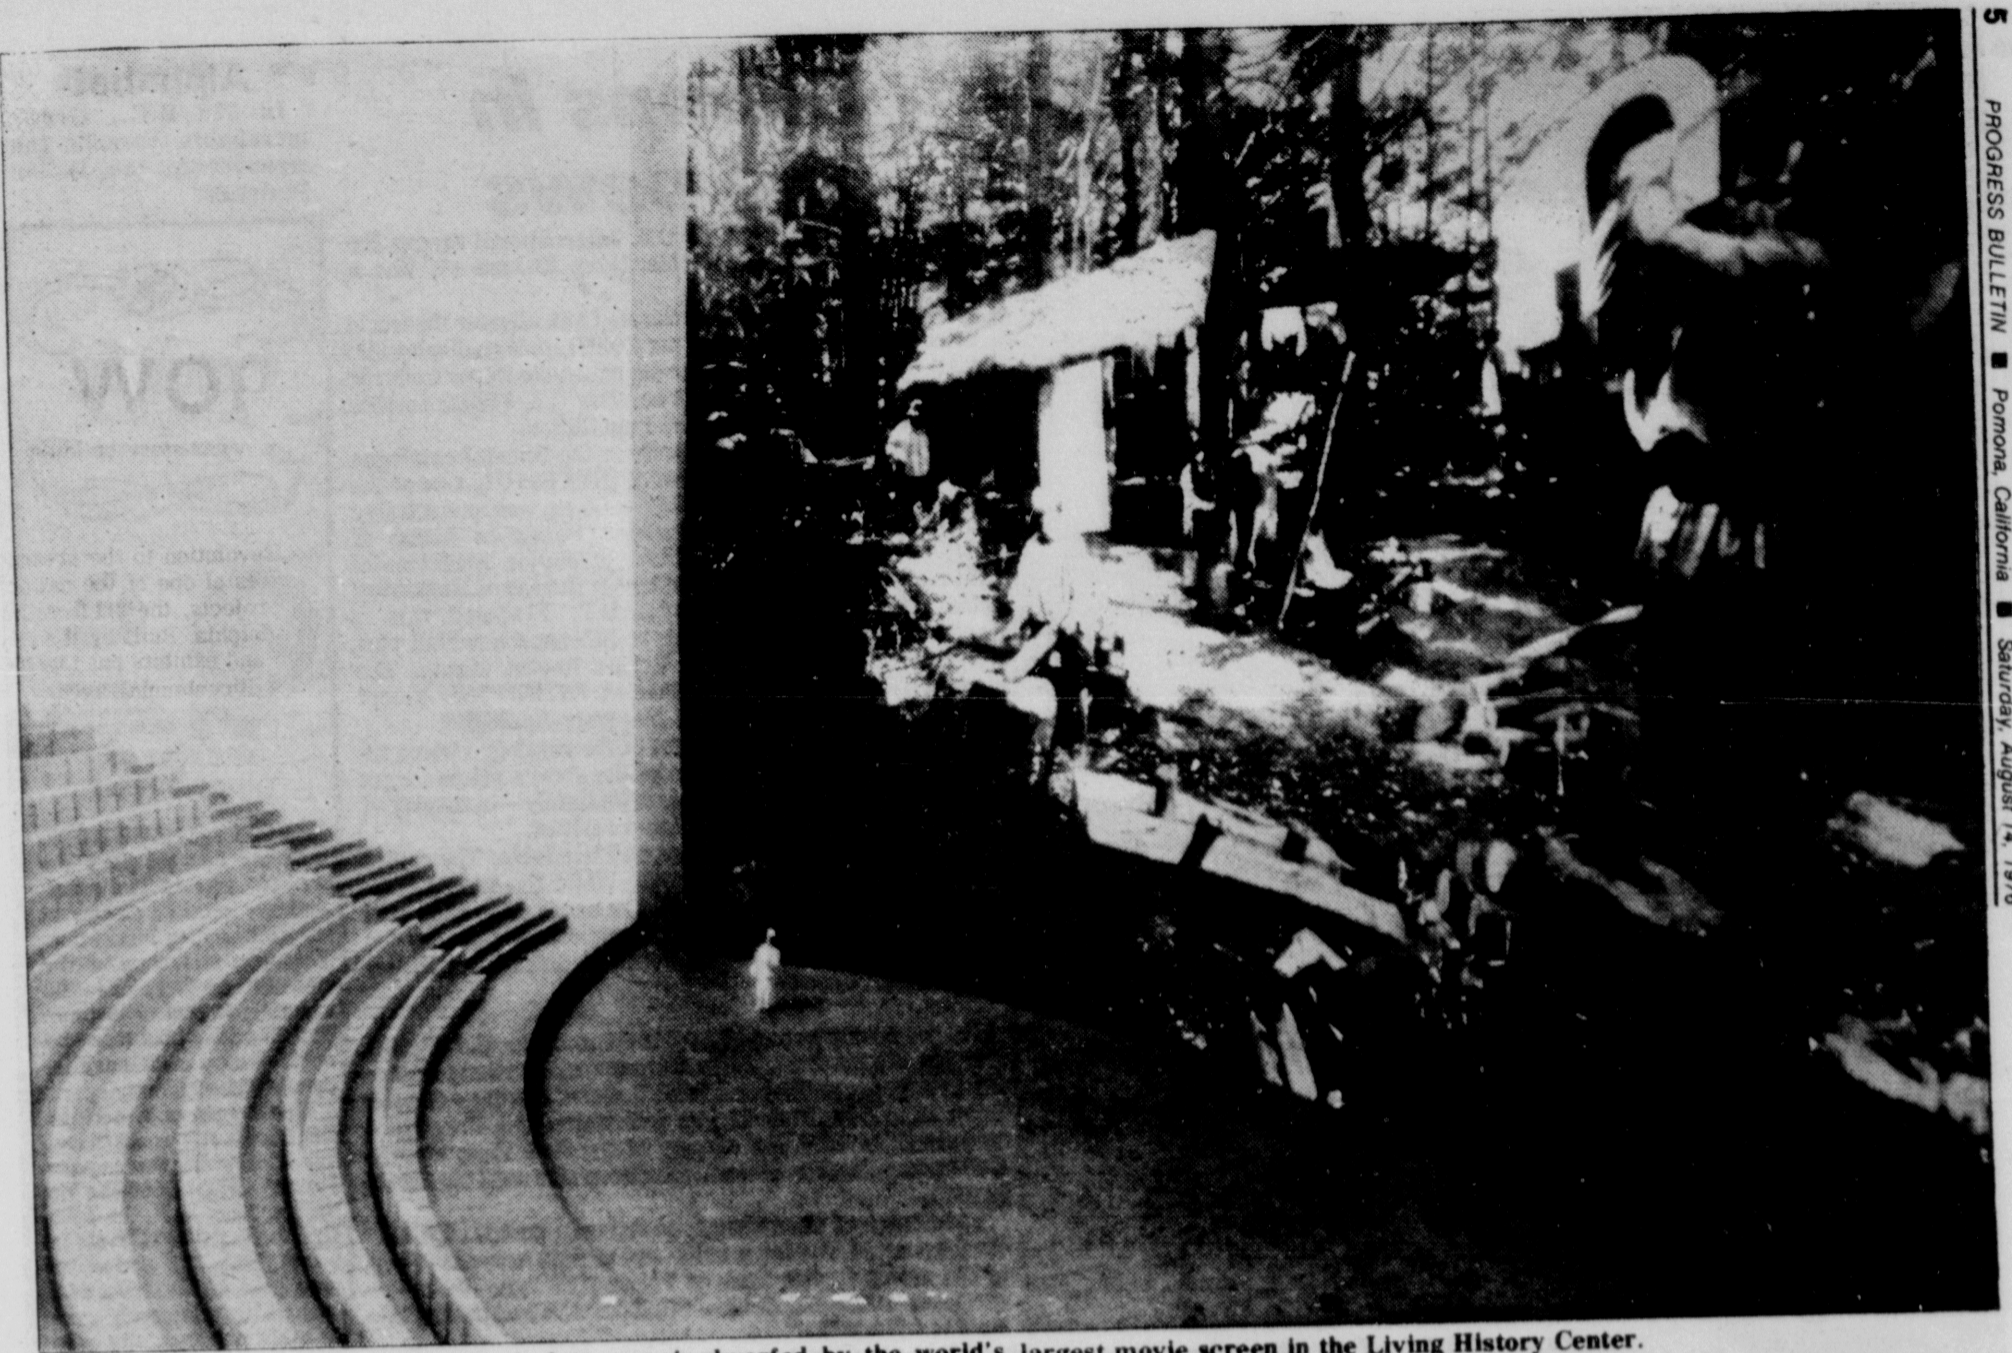

Francis Thompson, Academy Award-winning producer and director, looks over film of his

"American Years," nine times as large as the 35 mm used in most movie houses.

Ten-foot high colonial toys delight youngsters at Historytoy Park on top of the center.

Model of six-foot man is dwarfed by the world's largest movie screen in the Living History Center.

ON THE COVER

"Colonial Youth With Fife," a bronze sculpture by Eric Parks, welcomes visitors to the new $11.5 million Living History Center in Philadelphia. The Bicentennial structure opened in April and has already been visited by hundreds of thousands of people from all over the world.

$11.5 million Bicentennial project

Showing at the theater every hour is "American Years," directed by Francis Thompson who won an Academy Award for his "To Be Alive," presented at the Johnson Wax Pavilion at the New York World's Fair in 1964-65. Johnson Wax provided an assistance grant of $250,000 for "American Years," which cost $1.8 million and took two years to make.

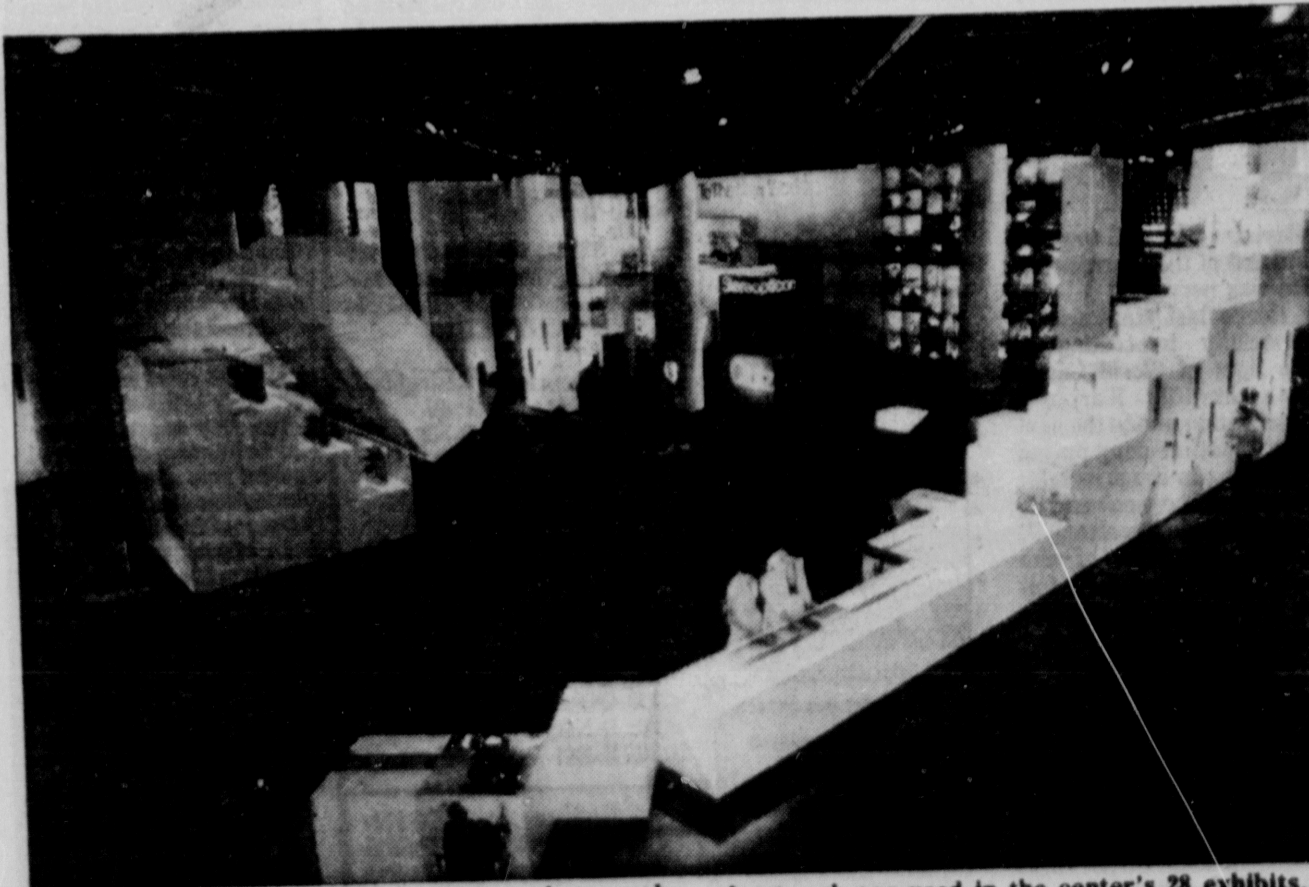

The super-size film is a series of vignettes from American history, some humorous, some poignant, some dramatic. (The film opens with a 70-foot-tall colonial horseman galloping to warn American villages of the approach of the British.)

Modern electronic devices have been used in the exhibits throughout the 16,000-square-foot hall. At the entrance visitors pass through a billboard of American symbols in a slide montage of images from history. "Hearphones" enable viewers to listen to dramatized incidents. The American Birthday Machine gives computer readouts citing historical events that occurred on the visitor's birthday.

The changing American family is presented through a set of four-foot motorized albums, a Rolodex-like filing card system showing family rituals from the 18th to the 20th century. The story of immigration is told on a towering, multiscreen wall using 64 separate screens and some 10,000 slides.

Historytoy Park is a playground on the roof of the center where youngsters can climb on and manipulate 10-foot replicas of authentic historical toys — a drummer boy, a blacksmith, pecking turkeys, hobby horses, jumping jacks, a carousel.

The living History Center is open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 general, $2 for children and senior citizens.

Film, videotape, audio tape, slides, photography and artwork are used in the center's 28 exhibits.

Stamps in the news

"INTERPHIL '76," the U.S. International Stamp Exhibition held in Philadelphia (May 29-June 6), was a smash success story.

Thousands of stamp enthusiasts from all over the world attended the exhibit to see the 3,000 frames on display and visit the many booths featuring philatelic items from the far-flung corners of the globe. The U.S. Postal Service had the largest display at the exhibition.

Visitors were quick to purchase the colorful catalogue prepared by the management of INTERPHIL. One of the specialties that went with the catalogue was an exclusive souvenir sheet (6 x 9 inches) issued in honor of INTERPHIL by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and produced by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C. Featured was a reproduction of an engraving at Independence Hall plus the design of the Liberty Series 10-cent stamp. The special sheet was not on sale at INTERPHIL except through the purchase of the 268-page catalogue.

Another interesting segment of the catalogue was a 16-page, full color reproduction of the show's prime target for visitors — The Aristocrats of Philately — a display of 31 of the world's greatest stamp rarities.

Copies of this catalogue are still available. The copies include the U.S. souvenir sheet. While the supply lasts they may be purchased for $5, the same price they sold for at the exhibition. Send your requests and money to: INTERPHIL '76, Catalogue, P.O. Box 800, State College, Pa., 16801.

As previously reported in this column, the U.S. Postal Service will issue a 13-cent commemorative stamp honoring newspaper publisher Adolph S. Ochs. It will go on sale Sept. 18 in New York City in connection with the observance of the 125th anniversary of the New York Times. Ochs was publisher of the Times from 1896 until his death in 1935.

The design of the stamp is based on a portrait by S.J. Woolf, a noted free lance artist and writer. Across the top of the stamp in two lines of Times-style type is the inscription "Adolph S. Ochs — Publisher." Beneath the portrait is "13¢ USA."

Orders for first day cancellations should be addressed to: "Ochs Stamp, Postmaster, New York, N.Y., 10001." Remittance should be by money order, not cash. The cost is 13 cents per stamp to be affixed to the self-addressed envelopes which must accompany orders. Return addresses should be written low and to the left of the envelope. Orders must be postmarked no later than Sept. 18.

Volume I of the 1977 Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue contains a new feature which should prove helpful to the amateur as well as to the expert. It is a section devoted to "Counterfeits or Forgeries." The article refers to the various types of fakes and tells what to expect in such stamp items. Although it does not claim to be a panacea for collectors, the information helps to guide philatelists and alert them to forgeries.

THE GREAT BLUE HOPE

In my last article I described some of the extraordinary gems on display at the Smithsonian Institution. The main attraction of the Hall of Gems is the beautiful and elegant Hope Diamond. This is a blue oval diamond encircled by colorless diamonds and platinum.

The origin of the Hope Diamond is only speculative, but it may be the famous French Blue brought to France from India in 1668 for Louis XIV. This stone was stolen in 1792 and never recovered, but in 1830 a 44.5 carat blue diamond, presumably cut from the missing gem, came on the market. It was purchased by Henry Thomas Hope of England and acquired its present name. It was eventually bought by Edward B. McLean of Washington, D.C. for $154,000. Harry Winston, Inc. of New York purchased the piece in an estate settlement and ten years later presented it to the Smithsonian.

The Hope Diamond was considered cursed for many years. It was thought that anyone who held it in his possession would meet with violent death. The Smithsonian has researched the stone's history and found no viable evidence to support such a superstition. An American Gem Society Certified Gemologist in Bethesda, Maryland recently defied the curse when he reweighed the diamond. He found it weighed 45.52 carats, a full carat more than previously believed.

The rich depth of color and brilliancy of this renowned gem always evokes admiration from the connoisseur of fine gems. There is no official quote of the stone's present value, but the last unofficial price mentioned was $10,000,000.

The tensions of competition

The many of our readers who followed the recent World Olympic Games are now especially aware of the exacting emotional demands of such competitions.

World championship chess is at least as demanding!

According to 2nd-3rd prize winner of the Manila Interzonal Tournament, Vlastimil Hort: "I simply failed in the finish, the nervous strain was a bit too much for me. I found the climate, too, just as many other participants, difficult to bear."

Hort also observed that the "failure of Browne (the American) can be blamed on his nervous system."

And that "even Mecking (the 1st prize-winner) played not so well towards the end of the tournament. He was nervous."

Hort's last statement is especially interesting in the light of World Champion Anatoly Karpov's observation, made the next day, "that mecking played according to the principle: 'win from the weak and do not lose from the strong'."

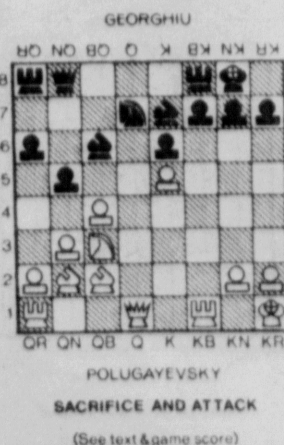

The exactions of the tournament took their toll on Mr. Mecking, nevertheless.

POLUGAYEVSKY PLAYS INGENIOUSLY

A notable performance in the Manila tournament was the effort of grandmaster Lev Polugayevsky of the Soviet Union, the other 2nd-3rd place winner, who according to Karpov, "played ingenious

People enjoy thrill rides, says professor

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Don Palmer has been riding roller coasters — professionally — for the past several years. Most recently he's been going over the top on a double racing ride where two coaster trains, starting side by side, race over a mile-long course, reaching speeds of more than 60 miles an hour.

"I must have ridden that ride 5,000 times while breaking it in," says Palmer, speaking of the "Rebel Yell" at Kings Dominion near Richmond, where he is rides manager. "And, you know, it's still a thrill to go over that first crest."

"You see what's coming, you tell yourself to calm down, that it's nothing you haven't been on lots of times before. And, each time, just as you reach the top, you ask yourself 'What am I doing here back on it again?'"

"For a second you stop there, poised in space, right on the edge of disaster. Your eyes are tearing and you're holding on so tight that your knuckles are white. Then it starts, and you gasp for breath and your stomach is stuck someplace up in your throat. It's terrible."

Why do people pay good money to be scared witless, to have their stomachs driven up into their throats?

"People enjoy being scared; there's no two ways about it," explains Dr. Darren Newton, a social psychologist at the University of Virginia here and an expert on stress, fear and fear-inducing situations.

"People quickly become accustomed to a certain level of stress or anxiety; that's the level they learn to live with. Alteration of that level — either up or down — is very pleasurable within a certain range."

The actual thrill of "thrill" rides derives from two different components, Newton points out. One is emotional — the presence of physical sensation such as fear, excitement or curiosity. The other is an informational component; that is, the context.

"Hurling through air may be pleasurable on a roller coaster; it would be downright terrifying in a car that's out of control," he notes. "It's how you interpret the arousal sensations via the context that determines whether or not they will be pleasurable."

"Theme parks offer an abstraction of life that's very cathartic, that provides an almost perfect emotional release. It's an artificially-arranged vacation, very compact and time efficient. In seven or eight hours, you get an 'essence of vacation' — variety, relaxation, and excitement."

Remains of giant mastodon found

HIDDEN TIMBER, S.D. (AP) — A team of four Rapid City men has unearthed the remains of a giant mastodon that probably roamed the earth 70 million years ago.

"What's so exciting about this find is the condition of the skull, and the tusks, too," said Pete Larson, 24, a leader of the excavation team.

"I don't think we will have to replace more than 1 or 2 per cent of the bone in the skull."

Remains of the mastodon were dug out of a hill near Hidden Timber on the Rosebud Indian Reservation in south-central South Dakota early this summer.

The mastodon is an ancestor to the elephant and roamed semi-tropical forests just before the Ice Age.

The team found most of the skeleton intact and well preserved. One rear leg, the tail, some foot bones and an upper leg were the only bones missing.

The excavation team included Jim Honert of Rapid City who, with Larson, operates a business specializing in minerals and fossils.

Also digging were Larson's younger brother, Neal Larson, Jr., who is a senior geology student, and Robert Tate, 13, son of a local rancher.

"We went out there, not really expecting anything, and started digging. But then we found vertebrae, then a femur, then some ribs. By now the dirt was really flying," said Pete Larson.

The skull measured seven feet one inch, from the tip of the tusks to the back of the skull. The tusks had been worn down during the mammal's lifetime, but were intact and measured 47 inches. The skull was estimated to weigh a ton.

"I don't know how many complete skulls have been found, but there are not very many," Larson said.

Examination of the molars indicated the beast was at least 60 years old when it died, he said. It probably stood 10 feet tall at the shoulder.

The skull and other remains were dabbled with a preservative mixture of water and glue to guard against the deteriorating effects of sunlight and oxygen. The skull was also cast in plaster of paris.

Although fossil fragments of a saber-toothed tiger and a rhinoceros were found by the diggers, Larson said he did not believe the elephant died of violence.

He theorizes that the mastodon died of old age in a quicksand pit or a stream bed at the discovery site.

Commercial collectors have been known to pay thousands of dollars for assembled mastodons, but Larson declined to set any value on the specimen he helped find.

"It's just impossible to place a value on it as far as human enjoyment goes," said Larson, a graduate student at South Dakota School of Mines and Technology. Larson said he would like to see it given to the school museum.

The skeleton belongs to the Tribal Council of the federal government, though the council voted to allow the excavators to crate the bones to send to Rapid City, he said.

Ahead of Larson are plans to write a paper on the discovery and, he hopes, at least help with the assembling of the skeleton for display, which could take two years.

MOONLIGHT FEELS RIGHT

by STARBUCK (PRIVATE STOCK RECORDS)

This seven-man band from Atlanta, Georgia, named themselves after the main character in "The Rainmaker", played by Burt Lancaster, who wanted to be an Indian and a star. The stars here are leader Bruce Blackman, Sloan Hayes, David Snaveley, Jimmy Cobb, Tommy Strain, Ron Norris and former Mousketeer Bo Wagner. Between them, they play piano, organ, bass and lead guitar, drums, flute, harmonica, synthesizer, electric vibes, marimba, and maybe even the kitchen sink if you asked them nicely. "Moon light" is Starbuck's debut single and an instant hit, and here's their success secret: They bought their own 4-track tape recorders and holed up on an isolated farm near Atlanta, concentrating entirely on writing, recording, and perfecting their unique sound. What's your current favorite? Send your requests to the Tune In Editor of this newspaper.

QUESTION: I collect stickpins and recently came across an interesting one which first of all attracted me because I'm an enamelist, and secondly, because it was appropo to the Bicentennial.

It is a waving American Flag, exquisitely done in enamel with seven stripes and 13 stars. Mounted to the top of the flagstaff is a pearl. To the right there is a small lever which you push, enabling you to either raise or lower the flag on the staff. On the reverse side is a small inscription that reads (stamped) "Sept 1915."

With these qualities, can you give me any information about value? J.I.W.

ANSWER: Comparable examples are priced from $50 to $75.

QUESTION: Please estimate the value of three pieces of beautiful amberina glass shown in the enclosed photo. What was the center piece used for? It has a silver cover. I will greatly appreciate anything you can tell me about these pieces. All three are very deep red amberina and of the period. C. D.

ANSWER: If perfect, your cruet in the inverted thumbprint pattern is worth around $175 minus the stopper; the covered cracker jar in the same pattern — about $275; and the tumbler in the diamond-quilted pattern — around $90.

Veterinarian claims acupuncture useful for treating animals

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A Texan A&M University professor of veterinary medicine says acupuncture has worked on humans and there's no reason it can't work on animals.

Dr. Bill McMullen, a large animal clinician, said in a recent interview that acupuncture can eliminate pain, be used in animal surgery, and one day soon "may become another branch of veterinary medicine."

Research has shown, McMullen said, that needles placed in the proper areas can make life easier for cats and dogs and horses.

"We are only scratching the surface of animal acupuncture now," he said, "but it offers a lot of promise. It will not be a replacement for the current methods of veterinary medicine, but an addition to the practice."

Acupuncture can eliminate the pain of arthritis and offers great possibility in the treatment of shock in animals and in certain operations where anesthetic may be dangerous, McMullen said.

McMullen told The Associated Press he had witnessed an operation on a pony where two of the silver needles had been placed in the left ear.

"The skin jumped when the knife passed through. The muscles reacted, but the pony looked straight ahead with no obvious pain."

"On another occasion, two needles were placed in the hind legs of a dog and an incision was made in his stomach about four inches long. Once the operation was finished, the incision was closed, and the dog ran back to his room with no obvious pain," McMullen said.

"I have no doubt but that acupuncture is the real thing," he said.

"There has been a tremendous amount of research work in recent years that offers real good proof that acupuncture is more than hypnotism or hog-wash."

The A&M professor said acupuncture was first believed by some to be "post-hypnotic suggestion or patient preparation. I'd like to know how post-hypnotism works with a horse. I went in with an open mind. It can be an ideal situation for a quack, no doubt about that. However, I see its future now."

McMullen said that in the past few months he has worked with eight or 10 horses using acupuncture and "we had amazing results with two of them, improvements in three, and no improvement in the others, but understand these were almost hopeless cases. That is generally what we are getting on acupuncture, the hopeless cases. It would be nice to have the advantage to see what we could do in the routine cases."

The veterinarian said acupuncture is being used now on race horses suffering pain from various ailments. "I don't look on that with too much favor, but at least it is not a drug that can be harmful to the horse."

Self-help is group's gift to the poor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A guest sermon delivered 25 years ago in a local church, which challenged the congregation to help the less fortunate people around the world to help themselves, has developed into an international organization.

World Neighbors, with headquarters here, is now operating in 29 developing nations where the average annual per capita income is less than $250.

Beginning with only a few volunteers, it now has more than 700 paid and 2,000 volunteer nationals working to help people raise more food, plan their families, improve their health and start small-scale industry.

World Neighbors started when Dr. John Peters, then a professor of philosophy at Oklahoma City University and now president of the organization, spoke at a large church on April 22, 1951. Following the service, a group volunteered their support to organize the kind of self-help program he suggested.

It is supported entirely by donations from individuals, churches and organizations and neither solicits nor accepts government funds, according to Peters.

Using the slogan, "A Hand Up, Not a Handout,"

Son pleads to clear parents, halt abuses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Robert Meeropol, one of the sons of the executed Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, pleaded in a church appearance for enlistments in his fight to clear his parents' name.

The Rosenbergs were put to death in 1953 after their conviction for espionage in the theft of secret information on the atomic bomb. Meeropol and his brother, Michael, say their parents were framed.

"We must remain on the offensive to keep secret government and law enforcement from repeating their acts," he told a Glide Memorial Church audience Sunday.

"Reopening this case is not about reopening the past but making sure that the past does not repeat itself."

it enables people in a community to help themselves, sometimes through a series of "revolving loans," Peters explains.

The organization seldom sends Americans or others to serve as leaders in development programs. Instead, it searches out qualified and dedicated local leaders and, with them, works out needed and wanted projects.

"The people of World Neighbors have always thought of themselves as 'earthworms,' working from the bottom up to prepare the soil for development," Peters said.

"Our basic guidelines are simple. We go where the need, and therefore the peril, is greatest. We work only at the village level, with the man in the rice paddy, the man so often bypassed in the huge foreign aid schemes.

"Material aid is kept to an absolute minimum," he added. "Tools, seed, fertilizer and raw materials are usually purchased by the people."

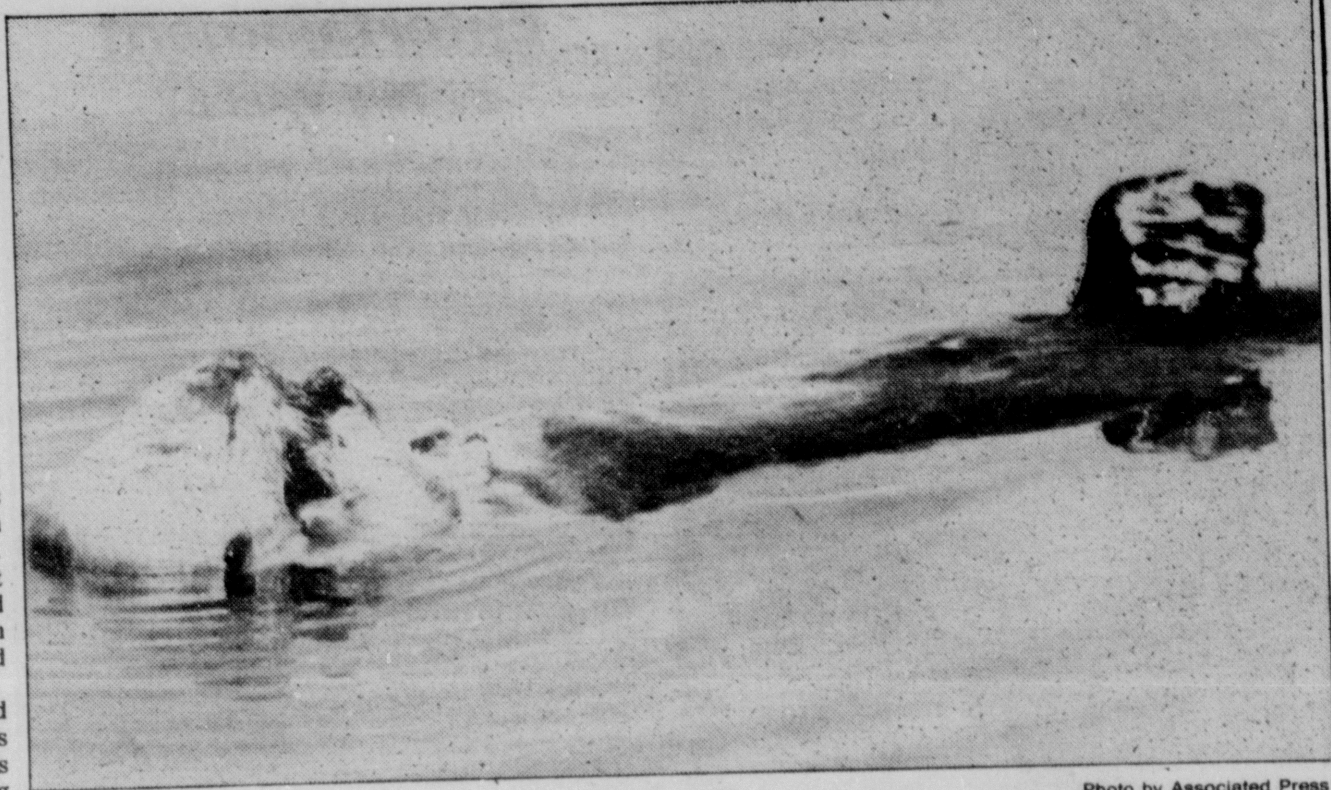

The money needed to begin a project is loaned to villagers. As they increase their income — from increased crops or small industries started with revolving loans — they repay what they borrowed. The money is then loaned to their neighbors and the process is repeated.

A women's organization in Guatemala received a World Neighbors revolving loan to purchase and plant potatoes. From an acre and a half they harvested 24,000 pounds by using improved seed potatoes, fertilizer and pest control measures.

Each member of the group received 500 pounds for her own family. Another 250 pounds went to the village church, and 2,800 pounds were set aside for next year's seed crop.

From the sale of the remaining potatoes the women purchased some needed equipment, put $100 in savings and with the balance repaid their loan — $118 plus interest.

"When we go to a village, we ask the people how we can be of help," Peters points out. "This approach often comes as a surprise to villagers such as a group in South India who commented, 'Never before in our lifetime has anyone, especially strangers, asked us what we want to do. We have always been told.'"

New Monticello home

RIDGEWAY, Va. (AP) — Although he's never seen the real thing, 17-year-old Jeff Thompson has built a replica of Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home in Charlottesville, Va.

The project, which used some 2,500 tiny bricks and took 95 hours over a six-month period, won $50 first prize in a high school bicentennial contest. It has been displayed in area schools and in the lobby of a local bank.

"I wanted to do some sort of historical project," the youth says. "I had always been interested in Monticello and Thomas Jefferson, so I decided to recreate the house. And I thought it would be a good way to learn a little more about how homes are built."

Before starting the 3-by-5-foot replica, he studied plans and pictures of the famous house. He then made a cardboard frame and glued it to a plywood base. For the bricks he rolled out Play-Doh modeling compound "very thin, just like dough for a pie shell," and then sliced out individual bricks with a knife. He painted them with orange-red enamel and added a light coat of "antique" finish "for an old look." Some 10 pounds of the modeling compound were used for the bricks.

To make the windows, Jeff cut out construction paper for the frames and used waxed paper for the window panes. The front columns, which support the portico, were made of construction paper, as was the roof.

The teen-ager, who has been interested in art as long as he can remember, has studied art in high school and likes to paint watercolors of flowers. He is also an avid horticulturist — he's had a flower and vegetable garden at his home since he was 7.

Jeff, who has a part-time job laying out pages for a local weekly newspaper, plans to attend college after graduation from Drewry Mason High School next year. He intends to study commercial art or — perhaps inspired by his recreation of Monticello — architecture.

Meanwhile, he's hoping to get to Charlottesville to see the house for himself.

Bleckner directs drama at Forum

Jeff Bleckner, who directed Faye Dunaway in Harold Pinter's "Old Times" in 1972, will direct the world premiere of Michael Cristofer's "ICE" at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center starting Sept. 16.

"ICE" is the second production of the Forum's 10th anniversary subscription season. It plays through Oct. 17.

"ICE" is Bleckner's third assignment at the Forum, having directed "Old Times" and "The Death and Life of Jesse James" by Len Jenkin in 1974. It was his direction of the premiere productions of David Rabe's "Sticks and Bones" and "The Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel" at the Public Theater in New York that brought him to national prominence in his field.

"ICE" is also Cristofer's second world premiere at the Forum in as many years, his first being the successful production of "The Shadow Box" last season. Cristofer also appeared on stage last season in the spring repertory productions of David Rudkin's "Ashes" and Chekhov's "Three Sisters."

The actor-playwright calls "ICE" "a brutal, startling and humorous love story for mature audiences." Not since "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" has an author exposed so mercilessly the inner emotions of his contemporary protagonists, he says.

Low-priced previews of "ICE" begin Sept. 5, prior to the official opening on Sept. 16. Tickets are now on sale at the box office and Mutual, Wallichs and Liberty agencies and the Ticket Mart. Season subscriptions are still available for the remaining plays in the 1976-77 season by phoning (213) 972-7337.

Currently appearing at the Forum is the new country-folk musical, "The Robber Bridegroom," which continues through Aug. 29, before opening on Broadway at the Biltmore Theatre on Oct. 6.

Concerts set at Pavilion

The Music Center Dance Association will open its third season of programs, Rug Concerts III, Sept. 12 in the Grand Hall of the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

There will be six free-of-charge events on each succeeding Sunday afternoon through Oct. 17, with a panel discussion beginning at 2:30 and a performance of either a dance demonstration or a mini-concert, beginning at 3 p.m.

The Rug Concerts this year take on a different approach, with three of the events being presented in cooperation with California Institute of the Arts (The Sequoia String Quartet, the Solomons Company-dance and the African Music Ensemble), and it is the first year when music also becomes a feature.

The schedule for the season:

The San Francisco Ballet on Sept. 12; the Sequoia String Quartet on Sept. 19; the Aman Folk Ensemble on Sept. 26; the Solomons Company-Dance on Oct. 3; the African Music Ensemble on Oct. 10, and the Bella Lewitzky Dance Company on Oct. 17. Composition of the panels will be announced.

Reservations by mail to MCDA, 135 N. Grand Ave., Los Angeles 90012, will be granted for one event only to a single applicant enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope. Seating cards, if applicant later must cancel, should be returned not later than 48 hours before the event. Doors open for those holding cards at 2 p.m. for a 15-minute interval. Those without them will be admitted at 2:15 p.m., at which time reservations will not be guaranteed.

Rug Concerts III is made possible by the support of the Atlantic Richfield Foundation, Rockwell International Corp., Department of Water and Power Employees Association, Los Angeles County Courts and Records Federal Credit Union; Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation's cultural arts section; the Ken Foundation; Capezio of Hollywood, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Luciano movie planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran screen writer Edward Anhalt has been hired by Orsatti Productions to fashion a screen play on the political life of the late mobster Charles "Lucky" Luciano.

James C. Moloney will produce "Luciano" with a multimillion-dollar budget in New York and Naples, the company announced. The script will concern the relationship between the underworld and politics.

NEWCOMER — Rosie, an orphaned California sea otter, feels fine after being cared for by veterinarians and has taken her place in the maritime family at Sea World, marine park at San Diego's Mission Bay. Rosie was rescued in Monterey Bay last February by wardens of the California Fish and Game Department. Sea otters are on the endangered species list.

'40 Days' set for screen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The 40 Days of Musa Dagh," a film project at MGM studios for 40 years, may finally reach the screen.

The Franz Werfel novel about the resistance of Armenians against Turkish attack in World War I was bought by MGM after the book's publication in 1933. Efforts to film the story were abandoned several times, reportedly because of pressure from the Turkish government.

Now a new generation of MGM executives has scheduled "Musa Dagh" as a film to be produced by James B. Harris. British writer Ronald Harwood has been assigned to adapt the Werfel novel.

The first railroad was built in New Hampshire in 1838.
